DAWES WILL BACK HOOVER TO LIMIT; SPIKES CANDIDACY

Notifies Press He Will Hold Doubt as "Insult."

QUIETS REPORT OF HIS RIVALRY

Record of President Is Lauded; Sees Nation on Upgrade.

Chicago, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Charles G. Dawes tonight stepped from the ranks of possible rivals for the Republican presidential nomination and enlisted as a "loyal" supporter of President Hoover.

The Chicago banker, who only last week announced his retirement as Ambassador to Great Britain, called newspapermen together with the explanation that politicians were seeking "as usual" to read "petty political significance" out of his return to Chicago.

He handed out a brief statement in which he said "any intimation to the effect that in any possible way or under any possible contingency he (President Hoover) will not have my loyal and entire support is an insult to me."

The unusual manner in which Gen. Dawes announced that he was resigning as ambassador as soon as he had completed his "general" duties as chairman of America's delegation to the disarmament conference caused the political plot to boil with conjecture as to his availability as a candidate for the presidential nomination, or for the vice presidential post, which he has already held for one term.

Failed to Silence Rumors.

Even his brusque statement that such talk was "damn nonsense" failed completely to silence the rumors.

Tonight he was apparently trying to settle the matter for one and all. As he read his own statement, Gen. Dawes raised his voice and nodded emphatically at the portions dealing with President Hoover.

The statement follows:

"I note the discussions of politicians seeking, as usual, to ready petty political significance out of my return to Chicago. I cherish for President Hoover the highest admiration and deepest affection. Any intimation to the effect that in any possible way or under any possible contingency he will not have my loyal and entire support is an insult to me.

"My last visit to this country was in July. I come back to find people risen above partisan politics. They will remain above them. I find both the Republican party and the Democratic party united in a determination to balance the national budget and limit expenditures. I find both parties and all the people standing behind a legislative program of reconstruction, which is a common sense program. It is based upon the old-fashioned idea that our Government should always raise the money to pay its expenditures and not borrow it.

Says Hoover Achieved Record.

"As for President Hoover, whatever may be temporary political reactions—and they are unimportant in such times—he has made a record in presidential initiative and constructive accomplishment unparalleled in the economic history of this Nation or of any other. He has done this without faltering and without discouragement.

"Economically this country generally has started on the upgrade; we have passed the bottom. The American people, with indomitable spirit, have resumed their onward march."

When Gen. Dawes announced his resignation as ambassador he said he was returning to his duties as head of the Central Republic Bank & Trust Co. here, of which he is honorary chairman.

The Daily News said today it understood no immediate change was contemplated in the officers of the bank and that Joseph E. Otis would be reelected as chairman of the board. The newspaper said that a change in the bank titles would

2 Die, Baby Blown Away As Storm Strikes Texas

Eagle Lake, Tex., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Two Mexicans were killed and a Mexican girl injured by a storm that struck about 9 miles south of here this afternoon, cutting a path about 150 yards wide through the Herbert plantation. A Mexican baby was blown away and had not been found. Four tenant houses were wrecked.

The windstorm lowered its funnel to the banks of the Colorado River and cleared a path for a mile. Telephone connections were disrupted and roads were rendered impassable by a torrential rain. Doctors from Eagle Lake left for the scene by hand car.

Equal Rights Measure Pays Alice Paul Honor

(Associated Press.)

The birthday of Alice Paul, feminist leader, was observed yesterday by introduction of an equal rights amendment resolution by Representative Ludlow (Democrat), Indiana.

The measure long advocated by the National Woman's Party, provides that men and women shall have equal rights throughout the United States and its possessions.

Art Museum to Rehang Painting After Protests

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The Metropolitan Museum blew the dust off "Washington Crossing the Delaware" today, and decided to hang it up again. Recently somebody discovered the familiar painting was not in its accustomed place. Patriotic organizations protested in a storm.

William Sloan Coffin, president of the museum board, in a statement couched in dignified language, retorted that the patriots were rather slow to miss it. It had been taken down two or three years ago.

Then the patriots, in one group after another, bid to borrow the picture during the Washington bicentennial. Mr. Coffin issued another statement today, telling them all nobody would borrow it until after the bicentennial exhibition. The museum wants it after all. It will be hung in the American wing, beginning February 16.

JOHNSON SOLICITED TO OPPOSE HOOVER

North Dakota Senators Ask Him to Enter Primary in State on March 15.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The under cover campaign to have Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), of California, try to wrest the Republican nomination from President Hoover next June became an open campaign yesterday.

Two Republican progressives—Senators Lynn J. Frazier and Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota—urged Senator Johnson to enter the presidential primary in their State March 15.

They told Senator Johnson that he would have to act soon, as the State law requires that candidates must file by January 22.

Meantime, it was learned that Alfred E. Smith, of New York, may testify before a Senate committee and outline his plans for relieving unemployment. If the 1928 Democratic nominee should do so, it would undoubtedly strengthen the belief held by some that he still is in the race for the Presidency.

After talking to Senator Johnson and asking him to get into the North Dakota primary, Senator Nye said:

"We have urged him on the ground that the people of North Dakota would welcome his candidacy."

Senator Johnson, vice presidential nominee on the Bull Moose ticket with Theodore Roosevent in 1912, and a long-standing foe of President Hoover, was silent as to his plans yesterday, but those close to him got the distinct impression that he has no intention of going into the North Dakota primary.

It requires money to finance a presidential campaign, and Senator Johnson, who has been in public life for more than 20 years, is not a wealthy man.

Promises of financial support have come to him from at least two sources.

The Californian knows, however, that it is extremely difficult to block the renomination of a President who

U. S. Agents Arrest 7 In 'Wine Bricks' Raids

Oklahoma City, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Seven men were arrested today and charged with violation of the national prohibition act by Federal agents making a concerted drive to close all establishments dealing in "wine bricks." Those arrested entered pleas of not guilty before George J. Eacock, United States commissioner. Bond for each was set at $1,500.

Bee Demonbrum, deputy prohibition administrator, said the investigation of the sale of the bricks had been under way two months. Today's arrests, he said, was the beginning of a State-wide move against such sales.

ARMY AND NAVY MEN IN HAWAII ON LEAVE AGAIN

Are Permitted to Go to Honolulu, But Will Be Watched.

MITCHELL STARTS ENFORCEMENT QUIZ

Island Committee to Decide on Calling of Lawmakers in Special Session.

Honolulu, Jan. 12 (A.P.).—An improvement in the crisis brought on by Honolulu's crime situation and the kidnaping and slaying of a suspected woman attacker appeared today when restrictions on the liberty of enlisted men of the Army and Navy posts on Oahu Island were removed.

Confined to their stations since last Friday, when the abduction and murder of Joseph Kahahawai, alleged assaulter of a naval officer's wife, precipitated a threatening situation here, the enlisted men were reported anxious to get into Honolulu for their customary "good times."

A conference between Gov. Lawrence M. Judd and Rear Admiral Yates Stirling ended in removal of the restrictions. It was decided to permit liberty after warning the men to conduct themselves properly.

Meanwhile a special committee of territorial legislators, meeting to determine whether a special session of the lawmaking body should be called to treat with the ominous situation here, sent a request to Washington for copies of documents passing between Navy officials and Government departments relating to the crimes leading up to the crisis.

Soon After Senate Vote.

This action was taken soon after word was received that the United States Senate had directed the Attorney General at Washington to make a searching investigation of the local trouble. The character and efficiency of all territorial officials, from Gov. Judd on down, is to be studied.

City authorities went ahead with legal steps toward prosecution of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, United States Navy, and two Navy enlisted men charged with the murder of Kahahawai, suspected attacker of Mrs. Massie last September.

A grand jury, composed of one Hawaiian, three of part Hawaiian blood, one Chinese and eighteen Caucasians was drawn to act in the murder case. The jury organization was delayed, however, until Friday, because of the necessary absence of Circuit Judge Cristy, presiding jurist.

Message to Husband.

Mrs. Fortescue tonight was reported by her attorney to have notified her husband, ill in New York, that "all will be well."

Montgomery Winn, the attorney, said the message was conveyed through him to Mr. Fortescue. It was the first utterance credited to Mrs. Fortescue to be made public since her arrest.

The message said:

"Please don't worry, Tommie (Lieut. Thomas H. Massie), son-in-law of Mrs. Fortescue and one of those accused of the murder) is looking after us and all will be well.

"Every one is doing everything they can for us. We have the best lawyers. If only I could come to you! Don't worry. You have all my love.

Dr. Alfred Sze to Take Yen's Place at Geneva

Geneva, Switzerland, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Dr. Victor Hoo, Chinese representative in Geneva, said today that Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese Minister to Washington, would be unable to represent China at the next meeting of the League of Nations Council, as had been expected.

Dr. Alfred Sze, who was understood to be resting in Spain, would again represent Chinese interests, if his health permitted, Dr. Hoo said.

Grandson of President, Operated On, Very Ill

Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 11 (A.P.). Dr. George Wimp tonight, at the Pasadena Hospital, said that improvement had been noted in an illness of 4-year-old Herbert Hoover 3d, grandson of President and Mrs. Herbert Hoover, but that apprehension was felt over some of the symptoms.

Herbert underwent an operation for sinus infection last Saturday and Dr. Wimp described him tonight as "a very sick little boy." Dr. J. Mackenzie Brown, Los Angeles specialist, was called into consultation today.

Herbert is the son of Herbert Hoover, jr. He became ill Friday, after his return from Washington, where he spent Christmas at the White House.

HITLER BLOCKS LONGER TENURE OF HINDENBURG

With Nationalists' Chief Refuses to Assent to Year's Extension.

Berlin, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Both Adolph Hitler, national Socialist leader, and Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalists, refused tonight to give their support to the Government in extending for one year the term of office of President Paul von Hindenburg.

They informed Chancellor Heinrich Bruening, who had hoped to avert the turmoil of an election this spring by having the Reichstag prolong the president's tenure, that they could not be a party to the plan because they considered it a violation of the constitution.

It was understood that both the Nazi leader and Dr. Hugenberg were writing letters to Dr. Bruening explaining they revered the aged von Hindenburg and wanted to see him reelected, but they insisted it be done constitutionally, that is, by popular vote.

Hindenburg's Position.

Before the decision of the two leaders of the "Nationalist opposition" was made public, there was talk of reelecting the veteran president in an ordinary election in which there would be no opposition candidate, except possibly a Communist.

This proposal was discussed by followers of Herr Hitler and Dr. Hugenberg. The president has let it be known that he will accept a new term only on condition that he is not opposed.

Today was filled with political conferences, the most active conferees being Dr. Bruening, Herr Hitler, Dr. Hugenberg, Otto Meissner, President von Hindenburg's political secretary, and Franz Seldte, leaders of the Steel Helmet organization.

Envoy Goes to Hitler.

It was learned that Meissner called on the Nazi leader at the Hitler apartment in the Kaiserhof Hotel yesterday. This was the first time an emissary of the president went to Hitler. Previously it had been the other way around.

Nazi headquarters made public nothing about the matters discussed by Hitler and Meissner durnig the Prison-Break Plot Halted at Baltimore

Police Riot Squad Nipped Escape Plan, Warden Reports.

Baltimore, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A reported escape plot in the Maryland Penitentiary was nipped in the bud today, but not before a police riot squad had been rushed to the prison for protection.

The first intimation of the attempt came when two prisoners, John Harris, a life-termer, and William Gambrill, serving seventeen years, attacked Guard Earl Owings with a pair of shop scissors in an effort to secure the revolver they believed he carried.

Owings was armed only with a gas gun, and when the prisoners discovered he did not have a pistol they surrendered and were placed in solitary confinement. Warden Patrick Brady said he had been informed the attack on Owings was the first step in a plan of long-term prisoners to attempt to escape during the lunch hour, and he called for the police riot squad.

Warburg, Noted Banker, Gravely Ill in New York

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Paul M. Warburg, international banker, has developed pneumonia and is seriously ill in his home at 17 East Eightieth street, it was learned tonight.

Early in December he suffered a slight stroke on his return from White Sulphur Springs, where he had passed a belated vacation, following a strenuous period of work in connection with the European financial crisis. His condition, however, had improved steadily until Friday, when he contracted pneumonia and his condition became grave.

CHINA DRAWS UP PLAN TO BREAK WITH JAPANESE

Program of Four Points Calls for Severance of Relations.

EXPECTING STIMSON TO CALL CONFERENCE

Tokyo's Drives on 'Bandits' Lead to Serious Clashes; Many Are Killed.

Shanghai, China, Jan. 11 (U.P.).—The Chinese government tonight completed its program for severance of diplomatic relations with Japan and a possible appeal to the United States and other powers for action against Japan under the nine-power Pacific treaty.

Shortly after the arrival of Foreign Minister Eugene Chen from Nanking, a government spokesman outlined the program, as follows:

1. A formal resignation by Chen, who will declare that the policies he formulated have not been put into effect. The resignation will be rejected.

2. Relations with Japan will be severed, leaving Chinese affairs in the hands of the German and American Embassies at Tokyo.

3. The government will concentrate on consolidating its strength in China proper.

4. The government expects United States Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson to call a conference of the signatories of the nine-power treaty to deal with the Manchurian situation.

Final Appeal Likely.

In event of failure to execute this program, which is not unlikely in view of the government's plan to carry out various other projects officially announced in the last week, it was said the cabinet leaders probably would make a final appeal to Chiang Kai-Shek, resigned Chinese leader, to aid the new regime with his military power.

Sun Fo, head of the present regime, preceded Chen to Shanghai from Nanking, leaving the capital almost depopulated of government officials. Chang Chi, chairman of the legislative Yuan, and Minister of War Hoying Ching, sailed for Fenghua.

The spokesman insisted that the government was determined to take vigorous action against the spread of Japanese military operations, although it was admitted there had been no indication that the United States would call a conference of nine-power treaty signatories.

Doubtful of Return.

It also was considered doubtful by foreign observers that Chiang Kai-Shek would return to Nanking immediately to aid the government, as the Cantonese leaders, now in power, were responsible for his overthrow.

Mukden, Manchuria, Jan. 11 (U.P.). The Japanese military offensive against "bandits" in the Chinchow area led to half a dozen serious clashes today. Chinese casualties were estimated in the hundreds, and at least 25 Japanese were killed.

The most severe engagement was at Chinsi, southwest of Chinchow, where the Japanese troops captured the city at 1 p. m., after a two-day battle with 3,000 Chinese. The clash began yesterday when a score of

Italian Press Asks End of Reparations

Article Attributed to Duce Urges Sponging Slate at Lausanne.

Milan, Italy, Tuesday, Jan. 12 (U.P.).—A "common sponging of the slate" at the forthcoming Lausanne Reparations Conference was urged today by the newspaper, Popolo D'Italia, in an article attributed to Premier Mussolini.

The article was public a few hours after a foreign office spokesman in Rome, commenting on Germany's declaration of inability to pay, had called for a "radical solution" of the intergovernmental debts problem.

"Will the governments of Europe again display a tremendous lack of will power, which seems to paralyze them whenever they face the problem?" the article asked. "Should Lausanne be unable to untie the knot, it should be better not to have convened and to establish a moratorium on these conferences."

Driver Leaps to Safety As Train Wrecks Truck

His agility last night saved Henry Lewis, 802 G street southwest, from death beneath the wheels of a fast Baltimore & Ohio Railroad express train at Washington Grove (Md.) crossing. Lewis leaped from a downtown department store's delivery truck and scrambled to safety just as the train totally demolished the truck.

The truck stalled on the crossing just as the fast express, No. 30, bound from Cleveland to Washington, appeared in sight. After frantic efforts to start the truck he leaped to safety. The truck was carried 180 feet by the train and then tossed aside, a mass of kindling. Lewis was not injured.

TWO BILLION DOLLAR BILL FOR U. S. FINANCIAL RELIEF PASSED BY SENATE, 63 TO 8

Optimistic Report Ordered On Peru, Attache Declares

Felt Loans Were Unsound and Warned Department, But Was Instructed to Paint Bright Picture, Former Official Tells Senate Group.

(Associated Press.)

An American official who was in Peru while that country's huge bond issues, now in default, were being floated in the United States told the Senate finance committee yesterday he was instructed to submit optimistic reports of conditions there to the Commerce Department.

Oliver C. Townsend, who was commercial attache at Lima from December, 1926, to December, 1929, said he felt the loans were unsound and warned the Commerce Department as much as possible in his reports.

But, he added, Thomas R. Taylor, assistant chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce in the Commerce Department, instructed him to send favorable reports.

The committee also was told by Lawrence Dennis, a former employe of the J. & W. Seligman Co., which handled the bond issues, that he warned the company against the loans. Dennis testified that the Seligman company, as well as other banking houses engaged in a practice of "dressing up the market" by artificial buying to keep the price of bonds up until they were disposed of to the public.

He denounced the practice as a moral wrong which should be forbidden by law.

The committee's investigation was called to the attention of the Senate yesterday by Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, who characterized the evidence brought forth as "amazing beyond belief."

Dill objected to opinions expressed by bankers before the committee that private debts are sacred, but public debts are political obligations.

Senator Johnson (Republican), California, opened the investigation yesterday by reading a letter written in 1926 by S. Parker Gilbert, then agent general for reparations, expressing "amazement at the recklessness of American bankers in offering to the public the securities of German states."

Later Johnson read a memorandum

CHAMBER ADDS FARM AID RIDER

House Gives Priority to Measure; Vote May Be Tomorrow.

(Associated Press.)

The first and mightiest of the administration's measures designed to lead the way to better times swept through the Senate last night on the crest of bipartisan support.

By a vote of 63 to 8 the emergency $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation urged by President Hoover was approved and sent to the House where a vote is expected tomorrow or Thursday.

Promised similar support there, the mammoth Government credit institution is expected to be functioning within a week. Debate on a companion measure was begun in the House yesterday without waiting for Senate action.

What Bill Provides.

On motion of Senator Carey (Republican), Wyoming, the Senate turned to consideration of the bill to increase capitalization of the Federal land banks by $125,000,000, immediately after disposing of the finance corporation measure. This is the second of the administration sponsored economic rehabilitation bills.

As passed by the Senate the finance corporation will have power to pour its billions in loans into banks, savings banks, trust companies, building and loan associations, the railroads, insurance companies, agricultural and live stock credit corporations, Federal and joint stock land banks, mortgage loan companies and exporting agencies. It carries a "rider" by Senator Smith (Democrat), South Carolina, providing $50,000,000 to be loaned by the Agriculture Department to farmers.

Loans to Cities Defeated.

Vigorous attempts were made in the ten hours of debate which preceded the vote to have its lending provisions extended to municipalities, but these were defeated by 45 to 26. New York's senators opposed the amendment, asserting New York banks were trying to force a raise in transit fares.

Going farther, the Senate struck out an amendment sponsored by Senator Shipstead (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, permitting loans to States and State-operated rural credit systems.

This latter move was made on motion of Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, who was asked to the White House earlier in the day, accompanied by Senator Walcott (Republican), Connecticut, author of the bill. Glass and Senator Bulkley (Democrat), Ohio, aided Walcott in managing the measure in the Senate.

Secretary Mellon, who will be one of the members of the board of directors of the corporation, was assailed in debate on an amendment prohibiting the corporation from making a loan to any firm in which a member of the board has a financial interest.

Mellon Attacked in Debate.

Citing an old statute barring the Secretaryship of the Treasury to any man engaged in commerce or trade, Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, asserted "it is well known we have a Secretary of the Treasury who is serving in violation of that law."

Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, remarked "that same Secretary of the Treasury" was to be a member of the corporation.

President Hoover, it is understood, is ready to name the board of the corporation as soon as the bill is finally enacted. The name of Bernard M. Baruch, of New York, chairman of the War Industries Board, is frequently heard as one of the likely Democratic members and possibly the chairman.

On the seven-man board of directors besides the Secretary or Undersecretary of the Treasury would be the governor of the Federal Reserve Board and Farm Loan Commissioner and four others appointed by the President with the Senate's consent.

Opposition to the bill as a whole was led by Senator Blaine, Wisconsin

M'DONALD IS BACKED BY CABINET ON DEBT

Bank of International Settlements Agrees Germany Can Not Pay Allies.

London, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The cabinet today ratified Prime Minister MacDonald's declaration that the proposed Lausanne conference has become more necessary than ever as a result of Chancellor Bruening's announcement that Germany no longer can pay reparations.

Exactly what policy the British will pursue at the conference remained unexplained, and indications were the cabinet would not reveal it in advance of the meeting.

In part, it was said, the position of the British delegates will be defined in the course of negotiations now being carried on with the French government by Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, of the British treasury.

Another cabinet meeting will be held Wednesday, when the members will be informed about the progress of Sir Frederick's mission.

All Germany's creditor nations, with the exception of France, have accepted Mr. MacDonald's invitation to the Lausanne meeting on January 25, and tacit consent has been obtained from the French, it was said.

The prime minister remained uncertain about whether to head the British delegation, which includes Sir John Simon, foreign secretary, and Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.

Chancellor Bruening's announcement that Germany no longer can pay caused a slight reaction on the stock exchange. There was not much selling, but prices were marked down in most sections. German bonds were 1 to 2¾ lower than Saturday. Gilt-edge offerings and transatlantics dropped a fraction, and Paris favorites, such as Rio Tinto Oil shares, were a trifle off.

Basel, Switzerland, Jan. 11 (A.P.). The report of the Young plan advisory committee, which declared Germany to be justified in contending she no longer could make conditional reparations payments, was approved today by the directors of the bank for international settlements.

The directors also renewed the bank's one-fourth share in the $100,000,000 short-term credit to Germany.

In a statement supplementing the report of the Young plan committee,

GOVERNMENT BANS MEETINGS IN INDIA

Gatherings of More Than 5 Persons Prohibited, Balking Nationalists.

Bombay, India, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The government today promulgated a special ordinance forbidding all meetings of groups containing more than five persons.

This latest emergency measure automatically outlawed every gathering of the Nationalists, who are fighting British authority with their campaign of civil disobedience and noncooperation.

It came after the boycott against British goods, declared by Mahatma Gandhi, and the All-India National Congress had succeeded in cutting business in Bombay to one-fourth its normal volume.

The Bombay Cotton Exchange, second largest in the world, has dropped from 100,000 bales to fewer than 100, a daily loss of about $3,000,000.

The gold export trade has decreased from $2,000,000 a day to $500,000. The cotton, bullion, piece goods, seeds and stock exchanges have been closed. Since the arrest of the mahatma not a yard of British cloth has been sold in the Bombay wholesale market, which supplies almost all India. Nominally this business runs about $500,000 a day.

The Nationalists set up what they call a "nucleus parallel government," by inaugurating an independent postal service between Bombay and outlying points. If the service is successful they plan to extend it to all India, and their policy is to carry letters at half the rate charged by the government.

One of the aims of this "parallel government" movement is to decrease the revenues enjoyed by the British authorities.

The Gandhi followers launched an India-wide campaign to persuade Indians to withdraw their postal savings and bank deposits from government institutions. If successful, this would divert from the government the use of millions of rupees.

The temper of the Nationalists was shown in the pledge signed by hundreds of members of the Bombay Cotton Exchange: "I hereby swear before God and man that I will not buy or use any articles or goods made in Great Britain."

Gov. Sir Frederick Sykes invited more than 100 prominent Bombay business men to discuss the sit-

Cobbler, 45, Tells of Killing Abducted Girl, Then Sleeps

Police Ruse, Climaxing 19 Days of Grilling, Brings Confession From Haggard Cincinnatian, Believed Unbalanced Mentally.

Cincinnati, Ohio, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—In a dramatic denouement to the greatest manhunt in Cincinnati's history, Charles Bischoff, 45-year-old shoemaker, weary and unshaven, today confessed to the kidnaping and assault of 6-year-old Marian McLean last month.

"I done it and it's done," Bischoff said in his statement, which related how he left the child to bleed to death as she lay bound and gagged in his cellar.

The bespectacled cobbler, without visible emotion and interrupting his questioners with queries on meal time, signed the statement after 19 days of almost continual questioning.

Immediately, Prosecutor R. N. Gorman ordered an excavation of the cellar in Bischoff's tenement house, where the child's body was found, in the hope of determining if anybody or human bones might be uncovered to connect Bischoff with other missing girls.

Willis Walker, an authority on Indian mounds, was ordered to direct the digging in the earth-floored cellar.

It was Bischoff who dashed from his tenement building last December 22, five days after the girl had been lured away from play, and told police he had found the body. He was suspected from the first, but until today calmly denied knowledge of the slaying.

Some authorities said they believed the cobbler mentally unbalanced.

Six Are Chosen as Judges Of Essays in Post Contest

Marvin, Nevils, Simon, Ryan, Clark and Johnson Selected; All Praise Move as Great Help in Promoting Interest in George Washington.

Representatives of five universities in Washington and Dr. Abram Simon, of the Board of Education and the Washington Hebrew Congregation, have been selected as judges of the thousands of essays being received daily for The Post's Washington Essay Contest.

All have expressed their willingness to serve, or to select a representative from their institution to serve for them if personal representation is impossible. The letters received from those selected all stated that the writers felt the essay contest would be of great value.

Those chosen as judges of the contest are Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University; Dr. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University; Rabbi Simon, James H. Ryan, rector of the Catholic University of America; Lucius C. Clark, chancellor of American University, and Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard University.

Rabbi Simon, in personally accepting the invitation to act as a judge, said, "Whatever will stimulate our pupils to a better understanding and appreciation of the life of George Washington and of his contributions to the cause of America is of high educational worth. I congratulate you upon the enterprise, and do most earnestly hope that all our school children enter this contest with avidity."

While Dr. Nevils declared that he could not definitely promise to serve

BROOKHART CHARGES PRESS FAVORS WETS

Newspapers Are Warned of Investigation Unless They Refute Accusations.

(Associated Press.)

A prohibitionist's charge that newspapers give "outlandish and unreasonable publicity to the wet side of prohibition" was made yesterday in the Senate.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, spoke after attending a committee hearing on the Bingham beer bill, at which four more advocates of the measure were heard. Opponents will not testify for several weeks.

The senator said that information "very innocently" came to him a few days ago that the Antisaloon League and other dry societies had refused, or neglected, to buy space in the newspapers and that the papers had turned against those organizations and organized "a sort of 'racket' against them."

Press Is Warned.

He did not name his source, but warned if the press did not clear itself of the charge a congressional investigation might be asked.

At the hearing Dr. William Gerry Morgan, of this city, a former president of the American Medical Association, said 4 per cent or even 2 per cent beer would turn the people away from "questionable" bootleg liquor of the hard variety.

He said while 60 per cent of the medical profession did not regard higher alcoholic beverages as a necessary medicament, he himself believed a more potent beer would be helpful as a food tonic to the sick.

If taken in moderate quantities, he continued, 4 per cent beer would not prove deleterious.

Drinking Effects Cited.

Senator Hatfield (Republican), West Virginia, a physician and prohibitionist, cited claims of other doctors that alcohol produced many ailments, particularly cirrhosis of the liver.

"Seven-eighths of the German people have no cirrhosis," Dr Morgan replied, as laughter broke out in the crowded room.

Mrs. Lorraine Catlin Brower, vice president of the Congressional Districts Modification League, said many people believed President Hoover would approve a beer and wine bill.

After testifying Mr. Hoover had been quoted as saying, in June, 1918, while food administrator, that he was opposed to suppressing beer manufacture for fear of being held responsible for a "Nation-wide orgy of hard liquor drunkenness." Mrs. Brower said this orgy was "here, and how!"

Brookhart Blames Conditions.

Asked by Senator Bulkley (Democrat), Ohio, an antiprohibitionist, if the President might not have changed his mind since then, Mrs. Brower said she did not know, but would like to find out.

Senator Brookhart differed with the witnesses' claims of general drinking, and blamed economic conditions for the number of bootleggers. Big business, he said, had driven these men to crime to keep from starving.

Miss M. Louise Gross, of Brooklyn, national chairman of the Women's Moderation Union, said legalization of 4-per cent beer would help economically, and was necessary for health, and as a curb against crime, graft and beer running.

Representative Horr (Republican), Washington, decried the sale of grape concentrates, wine bricks and other wine-making ingredients, and urged lawful sale of beer at a low price. He proposed a beer tax of $3 per barrel.

Predry Law Employes.

Data on the number of persons employed in manufacturing various alcoholic beverages in several years prior to prohibition was submitted to the Senate by the Commerce Department last night in response to a resolution by Bingham.

The department reported for three years, 1909, 1914, and 1919, covering distilled liquors, malt beverages and vinous beverages, as follows, respectively:

Distilled spirits—8,328, 8,322, 1,741.

Malt beverages — 66,725, 75,404, 42,689.

Vinous beverages—2,726, 3,188, 1,661.

Saloonkeepers—1910, 68,215; 1920, 17,835.

Bartenders—1910, 101,234; 1920, 26,085.

Driver of Father Cox's Car Forfeits Collateral

Failing to appear yesterday in Rockville Police Court to answer charges of exceeding 25 miles an hour in Gaithersburg, Md., John Obermeir, 1711 Liberty avenue, Pittsburg, Pa., forfeited collateral of $7.50. The car he was driving was listed to the Rev. James R. Cox, of Pittsburgh, who led the jobless marchers to Washington last week.

Father Cox was not in the car at the time Montgomery County Policeman Ralph Howard, of Gaithersburg, halted it for exceeding the speed limit. Obermeir posted the collateral with Justice of the Peace James Garrett, of Gaithersburg.

Former Mrs. Tom Mix Wed To De Olazabal, Argentinian

Senor and Mrs. Manuel A. de Olazabal, who were married in Tuxedo, N. Y. The bride was Mrs. Mabel Victoria Hannaford, former wife of Tom Mix. Senor Olazabal is attached to the Argentine Embassy.

Embassy Attache and Bride to Live in Washington After Honeymoon.

Mrs. Mabel Victoria Hannaford, the former Mrs. Tom Mix, was yesterday married in Tuxedo, N. Y., to Senor Manuel A. de Olazabal, an attache at the Argentine Embassy, it was learned from the embassy.

Mrs. Hannaford's divorce from the cowboy cinema star became final on January 4. It was granted in Los Angeles, Calif. The couple had signified their intention of marrying when she was free, and it was thought when they left the Shoreham Hotel on January 3 that they were on a wedding trip.

The ceremony took place in the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. David Wagstaff gave the bride in marriage. Senor Arturo Peralta Ramos, of Tuxedo, was best man. Senora de Ramos, the former Millicent Rogers, was the matron of honor.

After a wedding trip of several weeks the pair will return to Washington and make their home at 2900 Cleveland avenue northwest, the former home of Mr. and M Frank Spalding.

Senor Olazabal has been in Washington for several years. He is a nephew of the former ambassador, Senor Don Honorio Puerreydon. Senor de Olabazal and Mrs. Mix met in California last spring. The groom is a former newspaperman and is a polo player of note.

Federal Dry Law Arrests Leaped in Last Six Months

(Associated Press.)

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition, said yesterday 38,018 arrests for prohibition violations were made in the last six months of 1931 as compared with 31,082 for the same period in 1930.

With the beginning of the new fiscal year last July 1, about 500 prohibition agents were added to the Federal force.

Mr. Woodcock's report also gave the following figures:

Cases placed on the docket, 32,737 for 1931 and 27,11f for 1930; cases pending unfinished, 23,034 for 1931 and 22,574 for 1930; automobiles seized, 5,652 for 1931, and 3,839 for 1930, and stills seized, 11,383 for 1931 and 10,551 for 1930.

Pointing to an increase of almost 400 in the number of cases made last December, compared with the preceding month of November, the director emphasized that there was an increase of more than 200 cases involving automobile seizures, and of about 90 cases of seized stills.

"We take comfort in that," he said. "It would seem to show that our order against buying liquor except under advance permission has had its effect in forcing the agents back to the source of supplies for material with which to make a showing.

"It's a lot easier, of course, to go and buy a drink and make an arrest in a speakeasy than to chase a liquor auto or find a still on a bleak hill."

Woodcock said fines collected on Federal prohibition cases during the last half of 1931 totaled $3,174,991, and in State cases $703,308. He reported a decrease from 674 to 601 for cases acquitted, and another from 1,466 to 1,279 in cases nolle prossed. The director said he believed this indicated that cases "are being made better."

In seizures of beer the report cited a decrease from 3,085,715 (including beer mash) to 1,881,829 gallons. Woodcock said this decline was an "inaccurate" comparison because of a change in the reporting of such seizures.

The average sentence imposed in 18,445 cases was 198.9 days, compared with 229.6 days in 12,414 cases in 1930, he said. A total of 3,410 permanent injunctions against speakeasies were issued for the 1931 period, he said, compared with 2,356 for 1930.

'Good Stuff' Sold Police Proves Colored Alcohol

Even the police can't rely on the kind of liquor one gets these days.

Sergt. George M. Little and George Deyoe, of the headquarters liquor squad, have been working for several weeks to break a case, they said. Finally two men agreed to deliver them 108 quarts of "real embassy stuff" on payment of $700, according to police.

The deal was consummated last night at Fourteenth and Girard streets northwest, police said. The two men were arrested and the alleged liquor taken to headquarters. Sergt. Little said he found the "embassy stuff" to be colored alcohol.

The men gave the names of George Dreyfus, 41 years old, of 2804 Fourteenth street northwest, and Carmine Davide, 43 years old, of 3520 Connecticut avenue northwest.

TWO BILLION DOLLAR BILL FOR RELIEF PASSES SENATE

Independent Republican, who contended it provided aid to banks and bondholders rather than for productive industry and agriculture. Senators Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, and Senator Black, likewise assailed it. They called the measure "a step toward socialism" and a "dole to capital."

Attacking the measure as "the most unwise legislation," Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, said, "It will not bring permanent relief, it will not feed the hungry, it will not revive business, in any legitimate way at least."

The Nebraskan said he had been called a Socialist, Communist and Bolshevist, but never in his "wildest flights of imagination" had he "thought of putting the Government into business as far as this proposes to do."

Charging international bankers with "a large extent" of responsibility for present conditions, Norris said "most of this money will find its way" into their hands. He referred to the measure as "this monstrosity which everybody fears, nobody wants and apparently everybody intends to vote for."

La Follette Amendments.

Among the amendments approved was one by Senator La Follette which eliminated a "blanket" provision for loans to all "bonafide financial institutions" with adequate security.

It was adopted without a record vote after Senators Glass and Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, had criticized the Hoover-sponsored National Credit Association. They contended that without the amendment this private $500,000 banking pool formed last October would be able to pass off its loans upon the corporation.

Two other La Follette amendments agreed to provide for quarterly reports to Congress by the corporation on its loans and forbid loans to exporters in connection with war materials.

A temporary creation, the corporation would have power to lend money during the year immediately following its enactment although provision is made for possible extension for another year by the President.

Loans are for three years, with five the absolute maximum.

Of those not voting it was announced that the following would have supported the bill: Republicans, Couzens, Dickinson and Townsend; Democrats, Fletcher, Swanson, Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Walsh, of Montana. It was announced that the following would have opposed it:

Republican, La Follette; Democrats, Black and Thomas, of Oklahoma.

McFadden Attacks Measure.

Opening debate in the House, Chairman Steagall, of the banking committee described the national economic situation as one requiring the assistance intended by the bill.

A provision of the House measure allowing the Speaker to name two members of the board of directors of the corporation is a point that has aroused the concern of the administration. It is regarded as an encroachment upon the constitutional appointive power of the President. Some Senate members fear it may force a declaration of unconstitutionality against the act.

Representative McFadden, of Pennsylvania, ranking Republican of the banking committee, who severely condemned President Hoover in the moratorium debate, opened an attack in the House debate on the reconstruction bill on the ground there was nothing in it for the aid of agriculture.

FOUR SENT TO JAIL IN DRY LAW CASES

Three Virginians Still Face Charge of Trying to Kill Federal Agent.

Four men were sentenced to jail terms in the United States District Court in Baltimore yesterday for their activities in connection with violations of liquor laws in nearby Maryland. Three of the men still face charges of assault with intent to kill following the shooting of a Federal prohibition agent last November.

The men held are Samuel Wolf, of La Plata, Md., and Aubrey Harding, Marshall Green and Nelson Patton, all of Virginia. Harding, Green and Patton are also being held for the injury of Agent H. D. McMunn, who lost the sight of one eye when struck by the charge from a shotgun, allegedly fired by one of the three men.

Three Get Four-Month Terms.

Judge W. Calvin Chestnut sentenced the latter three to four months in jail, after they had entered pleas of guilty.

According to testimony at the trial, Harding, Green and Patton had been operating a still near Rosaryville in Prince Georges County, Md. Following an investigation by Agent Joseph Brower, in charge of operations in southern Maryland, a raiding party decended on the still late one night last November.

As had been prearranged, it was pointed out, Agent McMunn was concealed near the still to give a signal when it started operating. As he blew a whistle and turned his flashlight on the still, a 1,500 gallon affair, members of the party ran forward.

Possession Wolf's Offense.

They were met by a shotgun charge, which struck McMunn in the face. He was taken to a Washington hospital, but later lost the sight of one eye.

In passing sentence on the trio yesterday, Judge Chestnut acted only on the alleged liquor violation. No date for the trial on the shooting charges has been set.

Wolf was sentenced to 30 days in jail and a fine of $1,000, for alleged possession and sale of liquor at his home. He was arrested last June after prohibition agents declared they found 95 cases and 55 ten-gallon kegs of alleged whisky in his possession. Agents testified they have previously obtained liquor from Wolf.

Two Idle Stills Seized In Prince Georges Raid

Two stills, one of 500 and one of 250 gallons capacity, were seized yesterday by Prince Georges County Policemen Oscar Beall and E. A. Turner in the vicinity of Cedarville, Md. Neither of the stills was in operation and no arrests were made.

At the larger still 2,000 gallons of mash and 30 gallons of whisky were seized, while there were 500 gallons of mash at the smaller plant.

Lankford In Race For Delegate Post

Virginia Republican Seeks Selection to Convention to Back Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Lankford, of Norfolk, yesterday announced his candidacy for delegate-at-large to the Republican national convention "for the special purpose of supporting Mr. Hoover for renomination."

Lankford said suggestions that another be chosen Republican presidential candidate were "foolish" and asked: "Why should we look for another man?"

Seven delegates at large to the national convention will be elected at the Republican state convention this spring. Virginia's representation in the national convetion was increased from 15 to 25 at the natonal committee meeting here December 16. The increase included a bonus of three delegates at large to Virginia's usual four, for its Republican vote in 1928. The other eighteen delegates will be elected at congressional district conventions—two by each district.

COURT WILL REVIEW DECREE ON PACKERS

Will Decide Whether 3 Big Companies Also May Handle Groceries.

(Associated Press.)

After spending most of its twelve years before judges, the packers' consent decree is on the Supreme Court docket again.

The court yesterday agreed to review a case determining whether the three big packing companies involved may handle groceries in addition to meats.

Early in 1920 the Government charged that Swift & Co., Cudahy & Co., Armour & Co. and Morris & Co. were using their vast resources to monopolize the meat business, and that they threatened to extend it to other food lines also.

The result was an agreement by which the packers promised to stay almost exclusively in the meat business.

The packers, led by Swift & Co., now claim that changing conditions make a modification of the decree imperative. They point to the rise of chain groceries, changes in refrigeration methods and profits by independent packing establishments in an effort to prove that the danger of monopoly has passed and that they themselves are threatened unless they are allowed to expand into business lines the decree forbids. Modification is opposed by the Government and wholesale grocery establishments.

Justice Bailey, however, in the District of Columbia Supreme Court, upheld the contention of the packers and ordered the decree changed to permit them to handle virtually every food product. Their trucks and wagons and railroad cars must stop at the door of the retail store, however. They are not allowed to operate those.

Morris & Co. has merged with another firm since the decree was first drawn.

Payment of Reparations At All Surprises Baker

Cleveland, Ohio, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—It's surprising that Germany has paid any of her reparations, former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker said today.

Commenting on the announcement of Chancellor Bruening that German can pay no more reparations, Mr. Baker said that if it had been made a year ago France would have seized the left bank of the Rhine.

BRITISH CABINET SUPPORTS M'DONALD ON REPARATIONS

the bank management went on record with strong support of the committee's findings.

The directors, it was understood, regarded Chancellor Bruening's announcement that the Reich no longer can pay reparations to be "very interesting and irritating to the French, but not likely to interfere with plans for the Lausanne conference."

French Irritation Admitted.

Paris, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Premier Pierre Laval told German Ambassador Leopold von Hoesch today that a bad impression had been created in France by Chancellor Bruening's statement Saturday that Germany no longer was able to pay reparations.

In explaining the government's attitude on the Bruening announcement, M. Laval used what was described as "amicable but firm language."

At the premier's office it was said the government would act on the statement—if at all—only after a cabinet session. The date for this session probably will be set after an important meeting tomorrow between M. Laval and Aristide Briand, foreign minister.

The Briand-Laval meeting and the reopening of Parliament are expected to clarify the political situation caused by the death of Minister of War Maginot and the illness of the foreign minister.

It was said tonight that whether M. Briand remains as foreign minister or becomes a member of the cabinet without portfolio will rest with what he thinks his health will allow.

Friends of the "apostle of peace" insisted his health was much better than generally realized and that he would not resign unless the entire cabinet did.

Stocks Weak in Berlin.

Berlin, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Chancellor Bruening's reparations statement exerted a weakening tendency on stock and share prices today.

It was the general impression, however, that the announcement cleared the air, leaving creditor nations under no misapprehension about Germany's incapacity to pay and inability to accept compromises at Lausanne.

Rome, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Debts will have to be revised if reparations are lowered as a result of the Lausanne conference, it was said in official circles tonight.

Italy will never take the initiative for cancelation of debts, an authoritative spokesman declared, but believes debts and reparations to be intimately connected. The occasion for this comment was Chancellor Bruening's statement that Germany was unable to pay further reparations.

The Bruening declaration, the spokesman said, created little surprise in Italy as it was in line with what the government already had foreseen and with the policy of Italy.

Dr. Bruening, it was explained, now has put the reparations question on the carpet and it is necessary for the nations to do something about it.

Italy was described as being ready to cooperate as she did in the Hoover moratorium.

Alberto Beneduce, one of the Italian delegates to Lausanne, was to leave tonight for Paris to exchange views with French and British representatives. This visit was planned, it was said, before Dr. Bruening announced Germany was unable to continue with reparations.

Estimates of Reparations Already Paid Vary Widely

(Associated Press.)

Current reparations developments and Germany's declaration of inability to make further conditional payments have revived the controversial question of just how much the nation has paid to its World War foes.

Official figures were lacking last night, but unofficial estimates ranged from $12,000,000,000 to $4,500,000,000. The first figure was advanced by Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, former president of the Reichsbank, in his book, "The End of Reparations." The second figure is that of George Auld, former accountant general of the reparations commission.

Dr. Schacht's estimate included property confiscated, concessions lost and losses of other kinds. Dr. Schacht pointed out that the reparations commission did not accept this estimate. It was not accepted by the Young plan committee.

Auld's estimate included $3,800,000,000 in cash and kind, on which he said France received about 51 per cent, and about $700,000,000 in state properties, of which France received an undeterminate amount.

France figures her receipts from Germany at about $1,256,160,000. The French government estimates the total French property damage of the war at about $4,115,240,0000. The government has paid out about $3,915,240,000 on this account and still owes the people of the devastated area about $200,000,000.

NEW VESSELS URGED AS AID TO ARMS CUT

Pratt Reiterates Support of Vinson Plan to Spend $616,250,000.

(Associated Press.)

The authorization of new warships was held up before Congress yesterday as one means by which future arms limitation conferences could be made successful.

Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of operations, and Representative Darrow sponsored this idea before the House naval committee. Meanwhile, the House itself blocked immediate consideration of a resolution to authorize $450,000 for the expenses of the American delegation to next month's Geneva arms conference.

The measure was brushed aside so that the House might begin consideration of the $2,000,000,000 reconstruction finance corporation bill.

Pratt reiterated his support of the Vinson plan to authorize 120 new ships costing $616,250,000. Darrow, a Pennsylvania Republican, said one reason the Geneva conference of 1927 failed was that the United States "had no building program." He then said:

"I wonder if congressional approval of this bill wouldn't strengthen the likelihood of success at the coming meeting?"

"If we want the peace of the world preserved, how can it be done if we are not sufficiently powerful to say we will throw the weight of our power one way or another in a world crisis," Pratt responded.

The admiral added that one reason the Washington arms meeting was successful was that the United States had something to "sacrifice," and consequently "great power to swing the naval negotiations the way we chose."

He held it would not be competition to build up to London treaty limits, as the Vinson 10-year program suggests, and expressed the belief the fact that Congress was Navy-minded would be a good trading point at Geneva.

Chairman Vinson said he expected the committee to approve his authorization bill the latter part of the week.

HINDENBURG TENURE EXTENSION BLOCKED

hour and a half they were together, but party chieftains appeared confident that differences between Hitler and Von Hindenburg were being ironed out.

Political commentators said the refusal of the Rightists to take part in the Bruening scheme to extend the president's term apparently was influenced by the fact they did not want to assist the chancellor's government in any way.

Hitler Frowns on Method.

Dr. Bruening launched his scheme last week in an interview with the Nazi chieftain. Hitler delayed his decision until he had conferred with Dr. Hugenberg. It was taken for granted political concessions were offered the "Nationalist opposition," but what they were never was disclosed.

Before the chancellor was informed of the Hitler-Hugenberg decision, the Nazi leader said that whatever he and his colleague determined to do would be based upon "our regard for the dignity of the person of Reichspresident Von Hindenburg."

"I am at present occupied in clarifying the situation, which, without our intention or guilt, was messed up by drawing the venerable personality of the president into a party-political discussion," Hitler said.

ARMY AND NAVY MEN GET BACK LIBERTIES

tody of naval authorities at Pearl Harbor after having been held in the city jail. He was delivered to naval officers under an agreement similar to that which was made when Mrs. Fortescue, Massie and E. J. Lord, the other enlisted man involved, were taken to the naval post for safe keeping.

Despite the insistence of many officials that there remained no undue cause for alarm, Honolulu's streets remained dotted with more than the usual number of naval and military police. The men who now may go on liberty will be under the watchful eye of the various police patrols.

The Navy's decree boycotting Honolulu with respect to men of the fleet was felt today when the transport Chaumont, nearing the city, was ordered to stop at Pearl Harbor instead of Honolulu. The transport Henderson docked here yesterday, but no shore liberty was permitted.

Overheard Mrs. Massie.

Nothing was said about any change in the order whereby the 20,000 men of the Pacific fleet will be kept from Honolulu when they visit the Islands next month.

Two detectives, A. H. Stagbar and Val Cederloff, sent to the Massie home after it became known that Kahahawai had been kidnaped, said today they overheard Mrs. Massie answering a telephone call and saying: "Yes, they got the one who broke my jaw."

In the attack case Mrs. Massie said Kahahawai not only attacked her, but also beat her brutally on the face.

(United Press.)

The Government moved yesterday to bring peace to Hawaii, torn by racial strife, when Attorney General William D. Mitchell began an investigation of criminal law enforcement there.

A few hours after the Senate had approved without debate a resolution by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, demanding this inquiry and recommendations on whether a change in the administration of justice in Hawaii is desirable, Mitchell's office went to work.

It called upon the Navy Department to supply all information in its files regarding the many attacks upon women in Honolulu and all communications that had passed between the department and territorial government.

This information was similar to that which Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of naval operations, earlier in the day had submitted to the House naval affairs committee upon demand.

Secret Service Aid.

The secret service machinery of the Department of Justice will aid Mitchell in his investigation which his office promises will be "complete and speedily compiled."

The inquiry, it was explained, will be conducted along the same lines as one coming from any large city for the investigation of its courts. The United States district attorney in Hawaii may ask for assistants to facilitate the report and they will be granted him.

Special Department of Justice agents will call upon officials, business men and high native authorities as well as ranking Army and Navy authorities.

The Attorney General's Office also will consider racial crime psychology, especially that influenced by the tropics where crimes considered heinous on the mainland are not so seriously regarded under sweltering suns, it was said.

The Navy Department late yesterday issued another statement reviewing conditions in the islands, explaining its delay in publishing the report of Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, Jr., Saturday, was due to a desire "not to cast a shadow" upon Hawaii.

The private correspondence, it was stated, was held back to give civil authorities an opportunity to prevent "further attacks and threats upon the Navy personnel."

The disturbing situation in the Hawaiian Islands occupied attention in many quarters of official Washington yesterday. Other developments included:

1. A resolution introduced in the Senate by Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, asking for a complete senatorial investigation of conditions in Hawaii.

2. Admiral Pratt recommended a change of venue in the trial of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas S. Massie, and E. J. Lord, an enlisted Navy man, charged with the murder of a mixed-blood Hawaiian.

Must be Remedied.

3. Chairman Frederick Hale, of naval affairs committee, said "the deplorable conditions" in Hawaii must be remedied, and threatened to change the organic act, if necessary.

4. Chairman Butler B. Hare, of the House insular affairs committee, said he did not intend to have his committee investigate the Massie case, adding it could be taken care of without the aid of Congress.

5. Victor S K. Houston, delegate to Congress from Hawaii, has written President Hoover asking for moderation of official criticism of the Territory and an evaluation of the situation in a judicial spirit.

6. Chairman Carl Vinson, of the House naval affairs committee, publicly commended Admiral Pratt for his "attitude toward the whole situation."

CAPONE OBJECTIVE IN RUM TRIAL OF 51

48 Men, Woman and Two Corporations Accused of Huge Conspiracy.

Chicago, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Drive No. 3 against the Capone organization started in Federal Court today in the trial of 48 men, a woman, and two corporations charged with conspiracy in operating a mammoth liquor syndicate.

A jury was selected and Dan A. Anderson, assistant United States attorney, told to the twelve men a story of a liquor ring with headquarters in four States.

Six million dollars worth of liquor was distributed throughout the Mid-West by the gang, Anderson charged, since 1927. Government agents have told of evidence that Al Capone, since convicted of income tax violations, was a director of the syndicate.

The first witness, Henry Kane, a former defendant, told of renting a farm from Robert W. Besse, former State's attorney of Whiteside County, Ill., and of being asked to haul a load of beer vats, disguised as machinery, to the farm.

Others of the defendants with whom Kane said he associated were Mike Blumberg, known as "the Al Capone of Clinton, Iowa;" Paul and Tony Cinquina, of Chicago, and Tony Corsella, of Chicago. Blumberg was convicted in a liquor trial recently at Peoria, Ill., in which Ted Newberry, Chicago gangster, won acquittal.

Others on trial include Thomas Harrigan, wealthy Chicagoan; the Sugar Supply Corporation of Chicago, headed by Morris Fink, and the Chicago & Oak Park Auto Agency. The woman defendant is Mrs. Harriet Fritts, of Aurora, an alleged speakeasy operator.

Other offensives which the Government has made against Capone forces were the conviction and eleven-year sentence of the gang chief for income tax violation and the Peoria liquor trial, in which fourteen were convicted.

Schooner With Liquor And Crew of 8 Seized

New Orleans, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The auxiliary schooner Freda, with a heavy cargo of liquor and a crew of eight, was seized off the Mississippi coast by Coast Guardsmen Sunday after a long chase in which firearms were drawn, but nothing more serious than blank shells were fired.

News of the capture reached here today in messages to Coast Guard officers which said a patrol boat, with the Freda and her crew in tow, is en route to New Orleans. The messages said the schooner carried a thousand cases of choice liquors and a hundred cases of the finest champagne.

Employes' Bonus Payment Undecided.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Officials of the American District Telegraph Co. said today that no decision had yet been reached as to whether the employes' bonus would be paid this year. At present, it was said, maintenance of the payment, usually made semiannually in June and December, depended on business conditions. In 1931 the total bonus amounted to about 64 per cent of a month's salary.

SENATOR JAMES HAMILTON LEWIS.

HIS hands are symbolic of Senator James Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, who has made himself one of the most picturesque figures in American public life.

There is no pretense that the long, shapely forefinger with which he constantly keeps parted his one-time pink, but now white, mustache and whiskers, ever has known the callouses of hard physical labor. Neither does he appeal to the voters that he, too, is a downtrodden worker whose election would mean their easement and the discomfort of the wealthy.

His white beard and mustache afford a strange contrast to the shock of ruddy hair he wears with such an air, as if to say that he really is not so precise as everything else about him seems to indicate.

The senator carries his shoulders encased in precisely fitting coats, as if challenging not only the weight of his nearly 66 years but the weight of other years to bow them. He wears a wing collar. His shirts have stiff cuffs. His dark tie is decorated with a pearl pin. His always polished and pointed-toe shoes are surmounted with stylish spats. His trousers are exactly the proper length. His white waistcoat is double-breasted and has lapels and is immaculate. He steps as might a proud and famous master of fencing.

In short, this man of no great physical size, possessed of a rich, deep voice, who speaks with polite preciseness, is almost an anachronism. He has all the graces of a courtier who might out-Chesterfield Chesterfield, but with graces backed up by a mind so keen that those who are anxious to tackle him are not many. His friends like his unfailing courtesy; his enemies are overwhelmed.

Walking along Pennsylvania avenue one day, so it is said, Senator Lewis tipped his hat gallantly as a street car passed and remarked that among the passengers there might have been a constituent. Once, 'tis said, in the course of a campaign he refused advice of campaign advisors that he dress in rough clothes when talking at a lumber camp, but he managed to fall into the water and traded his finery for clothes borrowed from his lumbermen audience.

JOHNSON URGED AS OPPONENT OF HOOVER FOR NOMINATION

has served but one term. In the last 60 years, only three Presidents have been denied a second nomination—Johnson, Hayes and Arthur.

Every canvass that has been taken indicates the nomination of President Hoover for a second term at the Chicago convention.

The only two men who, it is conceded, would have a chance to wrest the nomination from him—former President Calvin Coolidge and former Vice President Charles G. Dawes—have both stated unequivocally that they will support the President at the convention.

Mr. Coolidge said so in a magazine article a few months ago. Mr. Dawes, whose unexpected resignation led to speculation that he would oppose President Hoover, at first replied that such speculation was "damned nonsense." Last night, however, he was more specific, saying that he would regard as an "insult" any further intimation that he would not support President Hoover.

Reverting to the possibility of former Gov. Smith testifying before a Senate committee on unemployment, the suggestion that he should testify was made the day after his speech at the Jackson Day dinner here.

In that speech, Mr. Smith advocated a big Federal bond issue to finance new public building projects and to thus create additional jobs.

Some saw in that speech an indication that Mr. Smith was still in the field of Democrats, although nothing that the New Yorker said afterward gave substantiation to such a belief.

At any rate, congressional friends of Mr. Smith went to him Saturday and asked him whether he would care to testify at the Capitol and outline his views.

They are now awaiting his reply before seeking to arrange a hearing for him. There is a bill before the Senate committee on education and labors, which calls for a $5,500,000,000 Federal bond issue for the construction by the Federal Government and the States. It was introduced by Senator La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin. Thus far there have been no hearings on the measure.

A committee of the Gifford Unemployment Relief Organization has denounced such a plan.

Bids on Treasury Bills Accepted, Mellon Says

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mellon yesterday announced acceptance of bids totaling $50,175,000 on 91-day Treasury bills dated January 13 and maturing April 13, 1932. Bids on the bills, offered on January 7, were opened yesterday at the Federal Reserve Banks.

The total applied for $169,337,000. The highest bid was 99.368, equivalent to an annual interest rate of about 2½ per cent, and the lowest bid accepted was 99.245, equivalent to an interest rate of about 3 per cent.

Fleeing Fugitive Killed In Hail of Police Shots

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Police today killed an alleged hold-up man in an exchange of pistol shots on a street in South Brooklyn. The man was identified as William Furey, alleged to have been one of three who held up a stationery dealer. Police caught two of Furey's companions and learned Furey was in a house in Thirty-seventh street.

When six detectives went to the house, Furey jumped from a window and fired at them as he ran down the street. They returned the fire and bowled him over.

Oil Merger Plans Ready for Boards

Sinclair Reported Involved in New $800,000,000 Corporation.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Details of the merger of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation, of Prairie Pipe Line Co., and Prairie Oil & Gas Co., were authoritatively said today to have been completed and to be ready for consideration of boards of directors of the three companies meeting Wednesday. Assets of the combination approximate $800,000,000, on the basis of book values shown in latest balance sheets.

At the same time reliable sources confirmed a report that Herbert R. Gallagher, vice president of the Shell Oil Co. of California, is slated to be named head of the new organization which will be known as the Consolidated Oil Corporation.

FORMER KLAN HEAD LAUNCHES NEW IDEA

Clarke Expects Enrollment of 1,000,000 Before Convention Here.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The man who claims to have built the Ku Klux Klan in 32 months from a little-known organization with 3,000 members and a $6-per-month headquarters into a hooded order with 5,000,000 "white knights," has launched a new idea, "the Esskaye Movement."

With an enthusiastic light in his eyes, Edward Young Clarke, former imperial kleagle of the klan, sat in an expensive hotel suite today and explained the new semisecret organization.

He told how he expected to enroll 15,000,000 members, amass a war chest of $10,000,000 to $150,000,000, swing national elections, expose political corruption, and reorganize national, State and local governments.

"Esskaye" is composed of the first letters of seven secret phrases which give the aims of the group.

Conceived in 1930.

"Seven," said Clarke, a dynamic, gray-haired man, "is the perfect numeral and our whole plan is built around it."

Clarke said the "Esskaye" idea was conceived by a secret group of 150 men and women who met in a closed conference in Jacksonville, Fla., on February 2, 1930. He refused to name any of them.

"Some wealthy New Yorker is the President," the former klan leader said. He refused to identify him further.

Memberships in Esskaye cost from $10 to $50.

"No officer will receive more than $25,000 a year," he explained. "Eventually we will employ thousands of men and women. We have appropriated $421,000 for literature and $1,000,000 for a series of conferences. The first will be held in Cleveland February 1, 2 and 3 at the Hotel Statler, with Raymond Tolbert, of Niagara Falls, N. Y., in charge.

Convention in Capital.

"The second will be in New York in March and others will follow in Boston, Washington, Chicago, Baltimore and St. Louis; all before June. Our national convention will be in Washington late this year. We will have 1,000,000 members by then."

He said he "doubted it" when asked if it were true that prospective salesmen of memberships, who answered advertisements in New York papers, were offered $4 for each $10 membership obtained.

An investigation into the Chicago municipal government will be begun next week, Clarke said, and others will follow in rapid order in New York, Dallas, St. Louis, Baltimore and San Francisco.

Gov. Emmerson Decides Not to Enter Race Again

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Gov. Louis L. Emmerson announced this morning that he would not run for reelection.

Expressing his gratitude to a group of Chicago Republicans who had come to urge him to run for reelection, Gov. Emmerson briefly reviewed his administration and then declared his hope "that in the campaign just ahead Republicans will lay aside their factional differences and nominate a ticket made up of men highly qualified for the various offices.

Boy Hears Verdict, Returns to Book

Confessed Killer of Employer Calmly Resumes Reading Tales.

Doylestown, Pa., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A girlish-faced farm boy sat in a crowded courtroom today, heard a judge order him held for the grand jury in the slaying of his employer and then hurried back to his cell to finish reading a book about travels in India.

Stanley Wismer, 14, who has confessed he fired the four shots from a small-caliber rifle which killed Elmer D. Bartholomew, 28, well-to-do farmer of Bedminister township, was remanded to Bucks County Jail to await trial on a charge of murder by Justice of the Peace Hobensack.

Alone and without counsel, the lad displayed little emotion during the hearing, which lasted about five minutes. His one show of feeling was exhibited when a State trooper described the four wounds which caused Bartholomew's death.

The killing, described as one of the most unusual in the history of Bucks County has authorities puzzled as to its motive.

DAWES TO SUPPORT HOOVER TO LIMIT

probably be made when Gen. Dawes actually quits the diplomatic service. Then Mr. Otis will become vice chairman of the bank, it added.

Dawes' Statement Seen As Definite Elimination

(United Press.)

Ambassador Charles T. Dawes was deemed here last night to have definitely eliminated himself from the presidential situation by his statement in Chicago declaring that he would regard as an insult any intimation that President Hoover would not have his loyal support. Close friends of Mr. Hoover indicated yesterday they expected such a statement.

It was the failure of Gen. Dawes to incorporate such a statement in the original announcement of his resignation which started speculation that he might oppose Mr. Hoover.

However, his statement last night was accepted as closing the incident, so far as Gen. Dawes is concerned. It is known he has been under strong pressure from his business associates to return to Chicago and assume leadership not only in the banking situation, but in the world's fair, which is regarded as holding the possibility of restoring good business in Chicago.

Newspaper Cashier Dies of Wounds.

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—James E. Chapple, 55, cashier of the Arkansas Gazette, died today of bullet wounds received Saturday when he was robbed of the newspaper's pay roll by a bandit. Charles and Don Pearce, brothers, arrested an hour after the crime, were charged with first-degree murder, following Chapple's death.

Marcher Drops Charge; Motorist Is Released

When one of the Pennsylvania unemployed marchers failed to appear to press charges against him, Taylor Musser, of University, Va., was freed on counts of reckless driving yesterday in Hyattsville Police Court. The marcher, Walter Mauche, of Darby, Pa., still faces charges of reckless driving made against him by Musser.

The two men filed countercharges after an accident on the Baltimore boulevard at College Park, Md., Saturday. Mauche left his car with authorities in lieu of collateral of $10, and this is being held. Musser stated that he did not want to press the charges against Mauche, as the latter had been out of work fifteen months.

REPORT SHOWS YULE RUM FLOW HALTED

Woodcock States Federal Men Seized 1,818 Gallons Spirits Last Month.

The flow of illicit holiday cheer in Washington was stemmed to a marked degree by Federal prohibition officers, it was indicated yesterday in the monthly report of Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition.

During December the department seized 1,818 gallons of various kinds of spirits, while 362 gallons of beer went down drainpipes. In the preceding months, 1,325 gallons of whisky were seized, and 190 gallons of beer.

To Director Woodcock, one of the most gratifying steps of the month was the large increase in the number of alleged liquor-running cars seized. During December 70 cars were confiscated as compared to 29 in November.

The prohibition director views this increase as a sign of strengthening of intelligent methods in enforcing prohibition, as it shows agents are more willing to undertake the more difficult task of seizing liquor before it reaches places of consumption, he pointed out.

Another outstanding accomplishment of the prohibition month in the Capital was the indictment of sixteen persons on charges of conspiring to violate the national prohibition act.

This was the result of an investigation of an alcoholic syndicate, Director Woodcock said.

Less wine figured in raids during the month, 95 gallons having been seized as compared to 650 gallons in November. Only one still was seized in the District during the month, whereas three were seized in November. Permanent injunctions were obtained against two establishments, in comparison with three for the preceding month.

Juries brought in three guilty verdicts. Eighty-eight defendants pleaded guilty, and 26 cases were dismissed through acquittals or nolle prosse proceedings. The average jail sentence imposed was 75.7 days, and the average fine $142.25.

Arrests were made in 217 cases during the month. There were 124 cases on the docket at the beginning of the month. A total of 155 cases was placed on the docket, and 162 unfinished cases were left on the docket at the end of the month.

OPTIMISM ORDERED, ATTACHE DECLARES

prepared by Townsend, when in Peru, saying Juan Leguia, son of the then president of Peru, "takes his share of the swag."

The memorandum described a dinner given to Leguia and other Peruvians by S. A. Maginnis, former American Minister to Bolivia, who was in Peru to negotiate the bond issue.

The committee was told last week that Leguia received $415,000 for helping arrange the loans.

"Don Juan plays his part well," Townsend wrote, "even it is said, to the point of going fifty-fifty with the promoters who charge their clients with certain round sums as paid out for graft."

Dennis told the committee he warned his company the Peruvian bonds would be in default within five years. He said he thought the loans were unsound because Peru was spending more money than the country's resources warranted.

He said conditions in other South American countries were similar, and asserted it was "absurd" to have loaned money in them since the war. Dennis scathingly denounced the practice of "dressing up the market" to sell bonds. He said it was illegal in England.

The bankers, he said, would buy enough bonds to keep the market up until the bonds were sold. They would take a loss on the operation, he said, which they charged against the expense of marketing the securities.

Meanwhile, the State Department was preparing to transmit to the Senate finance committee the note it received yesterday from Minister Luis Abelli of Bolivia, saying his government considered any suggestions that its obligations will not be liquidated as "unfriendly."

The memorandum was sent to Stimson on instructions of the Bolivian government.

Grosvenor Jones, chief of the Commerce Department's finance division, told the committee several days ago he consented reluctantly to a $23,000,000 Bolivian loan after the State Department had encouraged it for diplomatic reasons.

"The Bolivian government," the statement said, "views with great concern the discussions which have recently been proceeding before the Senate committee and wishes to state that it has never in any way questioned the validity of its obligations or its intention to eventually liquidate the same. * * *

"The Bolivian government considers any suggestion to the contrary as unfriendly and damaging to the integrity of its credit position which in the past it has always scrupulously maintained."

Representative Fred A. Britten (Republican), Illinois, praised Bolivia's attitude and said if other countries would take the same attitude the value of foreign bonds already held in this country would go up "hundreds of millions of dollars."

STRIKE IN SANTIAGO CHECKED BY GUNS

Minor Clashes Reported as Crowds Demand Dole and Prison Releases.

Santiago, Chile, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—A taxicab fleet bearing machine guns manned by carabineers apparently held in check a general strike today in Santiago.

Other carabineers on horseback and afoot patrolled the streets, breaking up Communist demonstrations and dispersing crowds. There were a few more clashes, in one of which a crowd stoned several street cars and injured a policeman, but the country generally was quiet.

The strike apparently was limited to street car and motor bus operators in Santiago, except for a walkout of furniture factory employes at Valdivia. About half of the street cars here were running with their regular crews and most of the buses were in operation.

Business was nearly normal, although many stores were closed owing to fears of shooting.

The government was determined that order should be maintained after having forbidden the strike, which was based on demands that the government release prisoners taken in recent uprisings, dissolve Congress and the Cosach Nitrate combine, in which American capital is invested, and provide a dole and other unemployment relief.

The government indicated a belief that the walkout had failed, largely because of its order revoking indemnities and pensions under the labor laws if any one quit work today.

Judge's Life Threatened Again in Strike Case

Pineville, Ky., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Special deputy sheriffs and special city police have been sworn in for guard duty during the trials here tomorrow of ten persons arrested in strike activities.

County Attorney Walter B. Smith today said a threat had been made against the life of County Judge George Vanbeber, similar to that made against him Saturday. W. J. Stone, counsel for the defendants, said he had advised all coal miners to stay out of Pineville during the trial. Twice previously the cases had been postponed because miners thronged into town. There was no disorder, however.

PRINTING OF MOONEY DATA MAY BE ASKED

Senator Cutting Believes Report Should Be Made Public Document.

(Associated Press.)

A move to have printed for public information the expert's report to the Wickersham Commission on the Mooney-Billings case is contemplated by Senator Cutting, of New Mexico.

He indicated yesterday authorization to make the report available as a public document might be asked in the Senate as the next step following its receipt last week after being formally requested from the President.

Prepared by three experts for the Wickersham Commission but never accepted by that body, the report contained a series of conclusions charging "gross violations" of California law by police and prosecution in the case of Warren K. Billings and Thomas J. Mooney convicted of the 1916 preparedness day bombing in San Francisco.

Judge Convinced of Injustice.

It also included a letter from the judge who presided at the Mooney trial saying he had "become convinced that the conviction of Mooney is a gross miscarriage of justice." The recommendation was addressed by Judge Francis A. Griffin, of San Francisco, to William S. Kenyon, of the Wickersham Commission last March 28.

This letter was placed in the Congressional Record yesterday by Senator Costigan (Democrat), Colorado, who with Cutting, a Republican, and Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, sponsored the resolution under which the previously unpublished report was called for.

Norris Admits Dilemma.

Later, Cutting said this letter "would seem in itself to be decisive as to what action should now be taken." He said he believed in the light of the letter the California governor should pardon them. He expressed the view that for the Senate to pass a resolution favoring release of Mooney and Billings would be unwise. He said he believed such action might be resented by the State and react against the possibility of early release.

Chairman Norris, Nebraska, of the judiciary committee, to which the document was referred, said he was at a loss to know what to do with it.

"There is not a horn of the dilemma which we can take hold of," he said, explaining that in his opinion the committee had no power either to seek release of the two men or to pass laws designed to prevent similar cases in the future since they were tried in State courts.

3 Supreme Justices Are Victims of Ills

Holmes and Van Devanter Attend Session While Brandeis Is Abed.

(Associated Press.)

Three justices of the Supreme Court were ill yesterday, one of them being unable to attend its regular session.

Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, who will be 92 years old in March, was suffering from lumbago and had much difficulty in reaching his seat. However, he handed down one of the two decisions rendered.

Justice Van Devanter went on the bench with an arm in a sling because of a slight touch of rheumatism. Justice Brandeis was unable to attend because of a cold.

Hamilton Called Man Of No Major Mistakes

Not a single mistake of consequence followed any public act of Alexander Hamilton, first Secretary of the Treasury, was the tribute paid to the financier by W. O. Woods, Treasurer of the United States, speaking over a National Broadcasting Co. network last night.

Mr. Woods declared that the public services of Hamilton warranted frequent acknowledgment. He pointed out that Hamilton was as great a statesman as he was a financier. "The value of his public service is beyond calculation," he said, "for we are indebted to him for beneficial results in scores of matters that have been of the most vital consequences to the Nation."

Billard Sworn in Again As Coast Guard's Chief

(Associated Press.)

Rear Admiral F. C. Billard was sworn in yesterday for his third term as commandant of the United States Coast Guard.

He entered the guard in 1894 and was first appointed its chief in 1924.

KIDNAPED CHILD AND SLAYER

Associated Press Photo.

On a pile of boards in a dingy Cincinnati, Ohio, tenement basement (above) the body of Marian McLean, 6, was found following a six-day search after she had been lured away by an unknown man. Yesterday Charles Bischoff (left), shoemaker who said he found the girl's body in his cellar, confessed that he kidnaped and slew her.

COBBLER TELLS OF SLAYING M'LEAN GIRL, THEN SLEEPS

Alienists who examined him have yet to report. Prosecutor Robert Gorman announced he would ask the grand jury to return to a first-degree-murder indictment tomorrow.

Bischoff's weakness for detective stories and a "drama" in the jail cell trapped Bischoff into confessing, authorities said.

Ruse Is Successful.

Deputy Sheriff Lynn Black, his face masked, burst in, shouting he was Marian's uncle, and flourished a gun. The disguised deputy "kidnaped" Bischoff from the jail and took him to the county garage, where he said, "We're alone, now tell me about it."

"I might have done it," Bischoff answered. When the ruse was made plain to him, he broke and talked.

Sitting on the bed in his cell, he unemotionally told a disconnected story of coaxing the girl to join him, of assaulting her and of hiding her body for four days. Marian died from hemorrhages caused by criminal assault, the coroner found.

"I am sorry it happened," he said quietly. "I didn't have any idea of killing her. It's done now, and I can't help it."

He seemed more concerned over eating than over the effect of the story he told. Frequently he asked for food.

He said he met Marian on a street and that she walked with him. He then took her into his basement.

"I don't know just how it happened, but when I saw she was dying I went away from there," he said.

Narrator Falls Asleep.

"She cried a little bit, but she couldn't go home after Thursday night (the day she disappeared) as I had already injured her.

"Then I went away. She cried some more. I left her tied. She was almost dead. Friday morning I saw her and felt her chest. She was dead.

"Monday night about 6:30 I brought her toward the front of the cellar. I was afraid my aunt or the lady upstairs would catch on.

"I saw her again Tuesday morning. Then I told police I had found her."

He decided to give up the body, he said, because firemen, in a house to house search, were nearing his home. Marian said nothing at any time he could remember, he continued.

Bischoff fell asleep as he finished his story.

Pilot Unhurt as Plane Crashes Near Staunton

Staunton, Va., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Edward Fairchild, 25, piloting an American Airways plane from New York to Hot Springs, crashed just south of Craigsville yesterday afternoon, but escaped unhurt except for a severe shaking up. A clogged gasoline line caused the motor to stall. The pilot made a forced landing, the plane taxied into a fence post and turned over.

Fairchild was caught under the wreckage, and was liberated when early arrivals lifted the machine.

uation with him. Declaring the sole purpose of the emergency ordinances was "to combat the unconstitutional subversive and destructive civil disobedience movement," the government appealed to them for cooperation.

Under the constitutional reforms to be put through by the round table conference, he said, "the Bombay presidency will become to all practical purposes, an autonomous state linked with the other British states and provinces and with the Indian states in a federation for matters of common concern, but almost entirely responsible for the administration of its own affairs."

"I claim the government is entitled to your fullest cooperation in bringing India's new constitution into being," the governor told the business men. Similar speeches were made by the chief officers of all provinces and presidencies.

Mrs. Kasturbai Gandhi, 60-year-old wife of Mahatma Gandhi, was arrested with two other Indian women leaders at Sayadia, near Surat, today on charges of inciting India's women to nonviolent revolt. When her husband was arrested and imprisoned at Yeroda recently, Mrs. Gandhi asked to be taken with him.

Another woman named Parbatigidwani and known as the "woman dictator," was under arrest at Karachi.

SECOND TARIFF BILL MAY PROLONG FIGHT

Senator Offers Substitute for Democratic Measure Passed by House.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate may be in for another tariff marathon after all. The vehicle for a protracted debate on the Democratic tariff bill passed by the House was enlarged yesterday by the introduction of a substitute by Senator Vandenberg (Republican), Michigan, giving further powers to the Tariff Commission and permitting the President to retain the authority the House measure would take away from him.

The Michigan Republican's measure would extend present flexible provisions by authorizing the Tariff Commission to recommend transfer of articles from and to the free list. Conress would have the final say, as it alone has the power to fix rates in the first instance.

The House bill, which was referred yesterday to the Senate finance committee, would vest in Congress the power given the President in 1922, to change tariffs up or down as much as 50 per cent after Tariff Commission investigation.

CHINA DRAWS UP PROGRAM FOR BREAK WITH JAPANESE

Japanese, including four officers, were killed.

Reinforcements were sent to aid the Japanese detachment and headquarters ordered bombers and infantry forces to wipe out the Chinese to the last man. The Chinese were pursued into Jehol Province.

Chinese Victory.

A Chinese victory was reported at Sinlitun, where 2,000 disbanded Chinese troops were said to have decisively defeated two companies of Japanese cavalry and artillery.

At Suichang two Japanese officers were killed and seventeen men wounded in a clash with Chinese. The Japanese routed 500 Chinese northeast of Chiuliuho and dispersed another band southwest of Fenchuangcheng, killing 50. Two Japanese were killed and many others wounded in defeating irregulars near Tahushan, where many Chinese were killed or taken prisoner.

A band of 1,000 irregulars destroyed the Peiping-Mukden Railroad line six miles southwest of Chinchow and Japanese troops attacked them. Fighting continued at last reports.

The navy department was understood to have decided to reestablish the station at Port Arthur, which was abandoned in 1923.

Chinwangtao, China, Jan. 11 (A.P.) Chinese sources declared today the Japanese were pressing ahead with their conquest of the Province of Jehol.

Gen. Shigeru Honjo, Japanese commander, is using the Thirty-eighth Brigade of the Nineteenth Division, which recently arrived in China from Korea, for this purpose, these sources said.

They asserted the advance was taking the form of an antibandit drive plus political pressure against Tang Yu-Ling, Governor of Jehol, and a lieutenant of Chang Hsueh-Liang, deposed Governor of Manchuria.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Stimson yesterday asked a remission of part of the severe punishment imposed by the Japanese government on those held responsible for the attack on American Consul Culver B. Chamberlain at Mukden.

The Japanese government submitted to the Secretary four points for punishment as reparations for the attack on the consul by Japanese soldiers and civilians.

The first was the dismissal of the civilian interpreter held responsible for the attack, and his being ordered for court-martial on the grounds he had formerly been in the army.

Military police present when the attack occurred are being subjected to disciplinary action.

The second point was disciplinary punishment of Maj. Gen. Ninamiya, commander of the military police and his subordinate officers, held responsible for the actions of the military police. Punishment of a major general in such cases is rare, and the Secretary accepted the other punishments as sufficient and asked remission of the punishment of the general and his subordinates.

The other two points, which have already been fulfilled included formal calls on military and consular officers to express regrets at the consulate at Mukden and Harbin, where Chamberlain is now stationed.

personally, he would be glad to cooperate in every way with The Post and would probably select one of his professors to act for him. "I wish to assure you that I am delighted to cooperate in whatever way I can in the very splendid work that The Washington Post is doing in promoting an interest in George Washington," he said.

Chancellor Clark, in writing his acceptance, declared he would be happy to serve as one of the judges and that "personally I believe this appeal to youth, to make a study of life and character of George Washington, will be of far greater value than the more public functions that will be held during this year."

"I am very happy to accept this office, realizing that such a contest will go a long way to promote knowledge of the life and activities of George Washington, as it will inspire patriotism in the contentants. I think that The Washington Post is doing a real public service by initiating the George Washington Essay Contest."

The Sunday holiday brought no cessation to the mounting interest in the contest among the school students up to 18 years of age in Washington and nearby territory who are eligible to compete for the $1,000 in cash prizes offered for the best 108 essays received in the contest by the time it closes at midnight on March 14.

More Essays Received.

Among the new essays received were those from the following: Constance Zaemes, 12, of 3310 Georgia avenue northwest; Mildred Welch, 9, of 3615 Dewey street, Brentwood, Md., and Jane Goucher, 10, of 1702 B street southeast.

From H. M. Sturgis, principal of the Hyattsville Elementary School, came the request for fourteen copies of the booklet furnished to contestants by The Post through the courtesy of the George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

In accordance with the plan to publish one of the submitted essays daily in The Washington Post without the name of the contestant, an interesting essay received in yeterday's mail is attached herewith:

GEORGE WASHINGTON AS A SURVEYOR,
by

.....

As a young man, George liked to visit the beautiful plantation at Mount Vernon. His brother, Lawrence, lived there. It was at this house that Washington met the leading men of the colony and a number of visitors from England. He began to study surveying. There was a great need of such work because of the large tract of wood that reached far away to the west.

Lord Fairfax, an English nobleman, owned a tract of land between the Potomac and Rappahanock Rivers, and also a vast area beyond the Blue Ridge Mountains in the grand Shenandoah Valley. Fairfax came to America to have his land surveyed. He did have a friend here who was a good surveyor, so George decided to go with him to learn that work better and assist Fairfax's friend.

Real Training for Him.

It was a real training for young George. They slept in the tents or fir boughs with bear skins as covers. At other times they slept in the open woods and even under the haystacks. They met some Indians, but fortunately they were most kind to them. The surveyors killed and cooked their own food.

One month later Washington returned with maps of all the territory. Fairfax was more than delighted with the wonderful description of this big tract of land. Fairfax built a house for himself in the grand Shenandoah Valley and it was there that George and some friends spent pleasant and profitable hours.

George Washington was a proud boy. He wanted to do things. Through Lord Fairfax's influence Washington was made a public surveyor and for some two years spent a great deal of his time in the wilderness making maps, studying the secrets of the beautiful woods and learning the habits of the Indians. At the same time he was surveying the thick forests.

Washington must have surveyed dear old Georgetown because I know a little house on old M street where George Washington used to stop and rest. There he made plans for long trips and studied maps. I lived next door to his house for three years when I was a small child. That little house is still there and everybody points it out to their visiting friends.

Received Mount Vernon.

On one of their journeys they went to Barbadoes. Here George was later taken with smallpox. He came back to Virginia and his brother went to Bermuda, later returning to Virginia, where he died. After his death George fell heir to Mount Vernon. At the age of 21 Washington was made major in the Virginian army.

The Ohio company and the colony of Virginia were very much upset by reports that the French intended to seize the forks of the Ohio. It was here that Gov. Dinwiddie of Virginia resolved to send a message to the French. He chose George Washington because he had surveyed all this part of the country and had experience with the Indians.

It was a 400 mile trip. George left October, 1753, and returned three months later.

It is understood that publication of these essays from day to day has no bearing on the relationship they bear to the contest. It is simply to point out to the contestants the general form being adopted by other boys and girls.

Applications Pour in.

Applications for the Washington booklet furnished by the George Washington Bicentennial Commission through The Washington Post to the contestants continue to pour in. Please do not get impatient if your booklet does not arrive immediately after you post your request. It takes a few days to reach you. FIRST IN THE HEARTS OF HIS COUNTRYMEN

LOVE LETTER WRITTEN AT 16.

Dear Sally:—This comes to Fredericksburg fair in hopes of meeting with a speedy passage to you if your not there, which hope you'l get shortly, altho I am almost discouraged from writing to you, as this is my fourth to you since I received any from yourself. I hope you'll not make the old proverb good, out of sight out of mind, as its one of the greatest pleasures I can yet forsee of having in Fairfax, in often hearing from you, hope you'l not deny me.

I pass the time much more agreeably than I imagined I should, as ther's a very agreeable young lad lives in the same house where I reside, (Colonel George Fairfax's wife's sister), that in a great measure cheats my sorrow and dejectedness, tho not so as to draw my thoughts altogether from your parts. I could wish to be with you down there with all my heart, but as a thing almost impracticable shall rest myself where I am with hopes of shortly having some minutes of your transactions in your parts which will be very welcomely received by your GEO. W.

WASHINGTON'S COACH.

Made in England, 1789. The body and wheels were of cream color, then very fashionable, with gilt relief, and the body was suspended upon the old-fashioned heavy leathern straps, like those of the former day stage coaches. Part of the sides and front were shaded by green Venetian blinds, inclosed by black leather curtains. The lining was of black, glossy leather. The Washington arms were handsomely painted on the doors, with the characteristic motto, "Exitus, acta probat"—the result proves actions. Upon each of the four panels of the coach was a picture of the four seasons. Usually, the general drove but four horses, but on going from Mount Vernon to the seat of the Government, at Philadelphia or New York, he drove six.

Bogus Stock Bail High for Suspects

New York Judge Requires $25,000 Bonds for 3 of 7 Defendants.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Following quickly upon their indictment today, General Sessions Judge Donnellan assessed heavy bail for seven of the eight men accused as members of the counterfeiting ring that circulated some $3,000,000 in bogus stock.

The grand jury handed up five first-degree forgery indictments, three of which named Salvatore Rinaldi, laborer, of Union City, N. J., and Philipo Marzzullo.

The other two indictments named six men—Charles T. Morgan, salesman; Arthur Plummer, publisher; Carlo Pellogio, head waiter; Salvatore Amello, taxicab owner; Carmine Ucci, salesman, and Salvatore Giordano, carpenter, all of New York. Rinaldi will be arraigned tomorrow, but bail for the others was fixed—$25,000 for Marzzullo, Ucci, and Giordano; $10,000 each for Morgan and Plummer, and $2,500 each for Amello and Pellogio.

France and Roumania Sign Oil Product Pact

Paris, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—An agreement by which French importers guarantee to buy a minimum of 400,000 tons of oil products from Roumanian producers was signed today by Minister of Commerce Rollin on behalf of France, and a Roumanian representative.

The agreement envisages progressive substitution of crude oil as French refineries develop, and runs for three years. It was described as the first effort to organize the European oil market.

LAWLESSNESS IN HAWAII.

The whole country is shocked by the outburst of lawlessness in Hawaii. Conditions revealed as a result of the recent sensational crimes in Honolulu are a disgrace to any territory under the jurisdiction of the United States. It is well that the Senate has directed the Department of Justice to inquire into the enforcement of law in Hawaii and that the naval affairs committee of the House is beginning to look into the matter.

Apparently law enforcement has been at a low ebb in the islands for a considerable period. The present series of crimes is only the climax of an era of corruption. Attention of the American public is drawn to conditions now largely because of the prominence of the individuals involved in these latest acts of violence. It is difficult to understand why Gov. Judd has not made conditions known before. No doubt he desired to save the popular resort islands from an unsavory reputation because of the effect it would have on the tourist trade. But conditions have now reached a point where the whole country will recognize Hawaii as a place unsafe for respectable citizens to visit until the place is cleaned up.

The problem of law enforcement in the islands is extremely complex. Only a small portion of the population is Hawaiian, but most of the people are Orientals. No doubt the mixed population accounts for the refusal of the jury to convict the natives who have been identified as the assailants of a young American woman. Apparently there has not been much attempt to uphold the American conception of morality in Hawaii.

By far the largest element in the population is Japanese. They number 137,000 compared with a total population of 357,000. Considerably more than half of the people are Japanese or Filipinos. These races are rapidly increasing, while the native Hawaiian stock is dwindling. Only 20,000 of the inhabitants today can be properly called Hawaiian. Many of the Japanese, Chinese, Filipinos and other foreign races are aliens. The racial admixture and the strong alien influence makes law enforcement a perplexing problem.

The police force in Honolulu is made up largely of natives and Orientals. For many years the force has been notoriously inefficient and honeycombed with graft and corruption. It is not surprising that Honolulu has been pronounced an unsafe place for white women, and that Admiral Pratt fears acts of violence if the American fleet should be sent there.

If the strong arm of Uncle Sam is needed to clean out this hotbed of vice Congress should not hesitate to make use of it. The fact that Congress has ordered an investigation gives warning to the local authorities to put their house in order. If they fail to do so they may expect rigorous measures to be inaugurated by the Government.

RENO HIGH SCHOOL.

A year's delay will occur if the item of $50,000 for plans for the Reno High School is not placed in the deficiency bill by the Senate subcommittee in charge. Originally it was intended that the item should be included in the deficiency bill, but later it was inserted in the regular appropriation bill. Western High School will be overcrowded by September of next year, and pupils in the western and northwestern sections will be subjected to the handicaps of the "double shift" system. The Reno School could be completed by 1934 if the appropriation were made available by July next. Otherwise the crowded conditions will remain until 1935.

Inasmuch as the growth of school population requiring this high school is 18 per cent per annum it is evident that relief must be provided. Why not now, instead of wasting a year?

CUT OFF VETERANS' DOLE.

Representative Will R. Wood suggests an economy measure that would serve a double purpose. He would amend the acts allowing benefits to war veterans so that pensions and disability allowances would be denied to veterans receiving large Government salaries and to those who have incomes large enough to require the payment of income taxes.

This is a fruitful field for study by Congress. Last year Gen. Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, urged that Congress amend the law so that veterans would not be encouraged to remain public charges when they are quite able of caring for themselves. He pointed out that the soldiers' homes and veterans' hospitals are filling up with disabled men who can be rehabilitated and returned to private life, but who frequently prefer to accept the living provided by the Government rather than go back to work. The effect of this demoralizing influence in the lives of veterans was brought forcibly to the attention of Congress. But the corrective provision was stricken from the veterans' hospitalization act by Senate insurgents. Instead of putting veterans' compensation on a sound economic basis, Congress passed the bonus act distributing gratis more than $1,000,000,000 to former service men.

There is no reason why men who occupy responsible positions in the Government service and draw good salaries therefor should be adjudged disabled and allowed compensation. If such veterans are actually incompetent by reason of their injuries, they should not be trusted with important Federal posts. If they are fully capable of holding down good jobs, which is usually the case, it is highly inconsistent to allow them compensation for disability.

The Government can not undertake to remunerate former soldiers for the hardships they underwent during the war. That was a part of their patriotic duty. It is the function of the Veterans' Administration to care for those former service men who were incapacitated by their war experience. Citizens who are fully capable of taking care of themselves ought not to become permanent charges upon the Government merely because they suffered minor injuries in the service of their country.

The expense of caring for veterans has assumed enormous proportions and is still growing. No complaint will be made as to appropriations needed to hospitalize or care for veterans who were broken in health by their war service. But the expenditures on able-bodied men who served their country must be rigidly limited. The Government has no right to make paupers of former soldiers by pampering them in institutions when they no longer need institutional care, and Congress ought not to use tax funds to fatten the salaries of veterans who are well and prosperous.

UNCLE SAM NOT A BANKER.

Senator Glass' attempt to hang responsibility for the unwise lending policies of international bankers upon the State Department is a striking manifestation of his fertile imagination. At no time has the State Department assumed any responsibility for the bonds of South American countries, or any other countries, sold to the American public by international bankers. The Virginia senator bases his entire argument on a fiction which he has manufactured out of partisan politics.

For the last ten years bankers have been submitting proposed foreign bond issues to the State Department to determine if such loans would be contrary to the international policy of the United States. In each case the State Department has informed the issuing house whether or not it objected to the proposed financing on political grounds. The department has carefully pointed out that it does not attempt to pass upon the soundness of any loan. International bankers are also forbidden to mention in their prospectus the fact that the bonds in question have been submitted to Government authorities. It is absurd to assume that the public bought South American bonds now in default because of any indorsement by the State Department. The department has never placed its stamp of approval on any foreign bond issue, and has taken careful steps to prevent its lack of objection from being construed as approval.

On the other hand, the Department of Commerce has furnished bankers with full information as to the financial status of foreign governments and municipalities. Of course, officials of the Department of Commerce have no authority to publish their opinions as to the soundness of any proposed bond issues, but they have made the facts available to the public. Senator Glass can not legitimately charge the carelessness of international bankers and the gullibility of investors against the Government.

Officials of the Departments of State and Commerce discussed the advisability of the Bolivian loan of $23,000,000 in 1928. Grosvenor M. Jones, finance and investment expert for the Commerce Department, expressed the opinion that Bolivia had "overborrowed." That was not a question on which the State Department could pass. There was nothing in the relations between the United States and Bolivia that might have justified the department in advising against the loan. Hence, no objection was interposed. Nevertheless, the Department of Commerce made public its information as a warning to international bankers and to the public to which Bolivian bonds might be offered.

How Senator Glass reads moral responsibility on the part of the State Department into this situation is a secret that he has not revealed. He challenges the right of the Secretary of State to inform bankers as to whether loans contemplated might be contrary to the interests of the United States Government. Would he, then, make it easier for bankers to mobilize American capital for purposes inimical to the welfare of the United States?

BOND MARKET DRESSING.

When international bankers are ready to float an issue of foreign bonds in the United States they frequently indulge in the practice of "dressing the market." Like merchants who decorate elegant windows to attract the public, the bankers often find it profitable to create an abnormal demand among gullible investors for the bonds they are about to offer. The practice was described to the Senate finance committee, which is investigating the sale of foreign bonds in the United States, by Lawrence Dennis, independent financial writer. According to Mr. Dennis, "dressing the market" is quite common.

If an outstanding issue of Peruvian bonds, for example, is selling in the United States for $85 it is obvious that bankers could not sell a new issue at $92 or $93. Before the transaction can be handled on a profitable basis a little "window dressing" is necessary. The banker instructs his broker to buy Peruvian bonds above their quoted price. By doing so he stimulates buying and the price rises. The broker continues to buy above the quoted price, until he has advanced the quotations step by step to a figure equal to the price at which the banker intends to float the new issue.

While the new issue of bonds is being unloaded upon the unsuspecting public at around $92 the broker continues to purchase outright all bonds of the old issue offered to him at that price. In this way a fictitious price is maintained until the new issue is completely disposed of. Then, to use the language of Mr. Dennis, the broker "pulls out the plug" and begins selling the bonds he has collected. In doing so he may lose considerable money, but that is merely charged up against the enormous profits reaped by the international bankers on the new issue. The gullible public which has invested in the new bonds at an inflated and unnatural price must take the loss.

In England this practice is unlawful, and the courts have denounced it as one of the most despicable forms of fraud. But in the United States it is tolerated, and unscrupulous international bankers grow fat on the profits. When this practice is connected with the payment of huge "promoters' commissions" and with the frantic competition of bankers to secure loans regardless of whether the borrowing governments were in a sound financial position the drama of corruption and intrigue, through which the American public has been swindled out of billions of dollars, begins to unfold. It is plainly evident that some American bankers have loaned South American governments vast sums for unproductive purposes in spite of statistical warning from the Department of Commerce and from their own investigators; that they have created an artificial market for foreign bonds in the United States, selling them at inflated prices by a fraudulent practice, and that most of them have unloaded all such bonds upon the public to escape the consequences of their own policies.

It is not yet clear what action, if any, may be taken to curb or regulate the sale of foreign securities in this country, but certainly Congress need not hesitate in putting and end to "market dressing."

A CORRECTION.

In enumerating the bills introduced in the present session of Congress, calling for expenditures of more than $29,000,000,000, The Post inadvertently attributed three bills, calling for the expenditure of $5,501,000,000, to Representative Menalcus Lankford (Republican), of Virginia. These bills should have been "credited" to Representative William C. Lankford (Democrat), of Georgia. The Republican Mr. Lankford disclaims any desire to disrupt the economy program.

The program to make football safe looks like an effort to let the sport sink to the level of professional wrestling and boxing.

Eighteen State universities and colleges cut salaries during 1931—that is, all except the salary paid to the football coach.

A BRITISH OPINION

From the Manchester Guardian Weekly.

At a pinch, America could somehow support herself, but we could not. We must have foreign trade. And so, soberly speaking, must America and France and every other developed country.

Why is it, then, that both America and France put, or seem inclined to put, other considerations first? France, we all know, would rather have "security" than reparations, and reparations rather than trade. It is an involved obsession and not capable of economic treatment. But one would have thought that the economic appeal would be heard in the United States.

As a matter of fact, it is heard, so far as the Government is concerned. If the American Constitution had happened to confer upon the President of the United States the power, say, of a British Prime Minister to control foreign policy, there can be no doubt that the world would be greatly the gainer. But it has not; in foreign affairs the President can do nothing without the consent of the American Senate—a fact which no amount of experience seems capable of driving into the consciousness of the average European. And the American Senate is still under the sway of certain Stone Age conceptions about the desirability of letting other nations go to the devil in their own way. The isolationists are still powerful in the American Senate.

President Hoover's proposal the other day to reestablish the War Debt Commission, presumably with powers to reconsider the various debt-funding arrangements, is now most unlikely to have an easy passage. Mr. Mellon, the Secretary of the American Treasury, spoke with the greatest generosity and understanding about the British war debt. Our debt is fixed in dollars, and he pointed out that, at the current price of sterling, it would cost us nearly half as many pounds again as had been originally anticipated to make our war debt payments to America. That, of course, is not a conclusive argument why we should not make them, but it is a forcible illustration of the difficulties which are now commonly encountered in the discharge of international obligations.

The difficulties of the Germans in this respect are, of course, almost infinitely greater than our own. In fact, there is no real doubt that both debt and reparation settlements will have to be recast. It is hardly conceivable that payment will ever be resumed on the present basis. Yet this is the moment when we get an inspired claim by the French press for full reparation payments (except insofar as America may provide relief) and for a renewed display of isolationist sentiment in the United States Senate. One can only hope that the spur of necessity may yet make itself felt in time.

It is easy for an Englishman to be wise about these things, because as a nation we should lose nothing by a general cancellation of debts, and as traders we should greatly gain. But France would, directly, lose and America would lose very heavily. And neither country feels that it can afford to be generous. The United States has a budget deficit beyond anything ever dreamed of in this country, and, so far as can be ascertained, much more severe unemployment.

WHAT IS A CLOUDBURST?

Rain falls during rainfall, says the Bulletin of the United States Weather Bureau, but clouds do not burst when there is a "cloudburst." Sometimes strong upward currents of air hold raindrops up from underneath and prevent them from promptly reaching the ground. Then the drops gather in much larger quantities than they usually do. When the upward air currents lessen, or so much water accumulates that the air can not support it, there occurs the deluge of rain that we call a cloudburst.

ASK THE GROCER.

We hear that people do not change much, only customs, says the Los Angeles Times. A letter from George Washington to his secretary, Tobias Lear, complained of the "high cost of living," and remarked that he did not see how families living on $3,000 per year could entertain more than he did on a salary of $25,000. We can't answer the riddle, but we know that they still do it.

What a Time It Would Be If— These Topics Were Debated!

By JOHN J. DALY

In challenging Senator Borah to debate, Winston Churchill, former chancellor of the British exchequer, names the subject: "Resolved, That capitalistic governments should recognize Soviet Russia."

It is planned to have Mr. Borah defend the policy of Great Britain in recognizing the present Russian regime, while Mr. Churchill would champion America's refusal to do so.

Immediately, Senator Borah is placed at a disadvantage. The tantalizing question arises: If England is a capitalistic government, where is the capital?

On the American side, the Britisher would merely point to an empty Russian embassy in Washington and ask about the $70,000,000 debt not even included in the five-year plan.

Mahatma Gandhi, let out of jail for the occasion, would take the British side of a debate against the freedom of India. He could argue many points with the good Lord Willingdon, viceroy of India, championing the right of civil disobedience. It would end in the bombing of Bombay.

In this country, possibilities of debate are infinite. Secretary Mellon, meeting all comers, might easily go to the defense of those bills and resolutions introduced by senators and representatives asking the Treasury to spend $29,000,000,000 over and above the budget. Any one of the budgeteers might ask the question, Why pick on the Treasury when it already has been picked clean? Then the budget hijackers would shed tears on the Secretary's shoulder, begging him not to be a spendthrift.

Interest in debate is immediately aroused when proponents become opponents, switching their advocacy. The head of the Antisaloon League, for instance, Dr. Clarence True Wilson, defending John J. Raskob's policy for the return of the old-time beer garden, and Mr. Raskob getting all hot and bothered over a rigid enforcement of prohibition would attract millions to the scene of debate.

Al Smith standing up for the policies of the Republican party, polishing up, and not off, the full dinner pail, and Senator Fess against him, heaping encomiums of praise on the head of St. Jackson, the patron saint of Democracy, would probably be one of the outstanding attractions of the year.

There is the current debate over Germany's inability to pay reparations. Chancellor Heinrich Bruening taking the affirmative, that Germany not only can but is willing to pay, and pay, and pay, and Premier Laval, on the other side, renouncing the "sacred rights" of France, pleading poverty for the barons of the Rhine, would hit front pages throughout the universe. Here you have not only views, but news.

Japan closing the open door in China, its action upheld by Minister Yen, with the Japanese foreign minister, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, denouncing Nippon, would prove a remarkable debate in more ways than one.

The United States Army and Navy could get in the game. Brigadier generals advocating a bigger Navy, admirals deploring the money spent on dry docks, navy yards and battleships, when it might just as well be used for further fortifications, new barracks, and more pay for the Army and the Marine Corps. This would be something to write home about.

There would enter then the ghost of an age-old debate, Resolved: That the pen is mightier than the sword.

Some rabid militarist, probably meeting George Barnard Shaw exploding the power of the press, would demand to know if anyone at any time ever had seen the signing of a check with a sword—and the debate would be over, with Mr. Shaw taking up the quill again in a defense of Russia.

To his other endeavors to adapt himself to the people of Porto Rico Mr. Roosevelt added a study of Spanish, of which he now has a good command for conversation and for public addresses.

This will be an obvious asset for him when he goes to the Philippines as governor general. So far as can be remembered, no predecessor of his either at San Juan or Manila was able to speak to the natives in their own language. This is not the small matter that some may think it. It goes far beyond a mere point of courtesy, though that is important in itself with Spanish-speaking people, and has to do with the fundamental knowledge of race and habitude.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Observations of "Old Soak" on 4 Per Cent Beer—It Looks Good to Him, but Some Drinkers Couldn't Stand Up.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As one familiar with the convivial life of barroom days, I read with interest Prof. Yandell Henderson's statement before the Senate committee to consider proposals for amendment of the Volstead act, that 4 per cent of alcohol by volume is not intoxicating. Prof. Henderson, who is a teacher of applied physiology at Yale University, testified in support of Senator Bingham's 4 per cent beer bill.

The senator assured us that in his 4 per cent grade we will have "a good, wholesome beer." And for the reassurance of any doubtful drys, the profesor says: "A person who is accustomed to drinking beer does not become intoxicated, in the proper sense of the word, even if in each of several successive hours he drinks a liter of 4 per cent beer."

A liter is a little more than one quart, and to any well-preserved old-timer it must sound good to be told that there is in prospect an alcoholic beverage, good and wholesome, and at the same time so exhilarating that the consumption, say, of from three to five quarts in that many hours will not seem a waste of time.

In so far as I am a dry, it is by force of circumstances which I do not unlawfully choose to kick at.

But I have had enough wet experience to say that there are not many individuals who can, without getting groggy, absorb the amount of alcohol which the gallant professor prescribes.

I have known cases where, under the influence of a glass or two of good old lager, the victim would at once become too talkative, too musical and unduly happy. It did not take them long to get helplessly spifflicated. It was mainly on account of these easily intoxicated unfortunates that the traffic in strong drink was outlawed.

It will be one of the greatest legislative achievements of all time if at last we are to be blessed by a statutory drink potent enough to soothe the thirst of hardboiled wets and yet of which those who are not natural-born hard drinkers can partake without becoming "intoxicated in the proper sense of the word."

OLD SOAK.

Deprecates Odious Comparisons in Discussing Public Men.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: No doubt during the next few months the names of many Americans will be spoken and written about as ideal candidates for President in the coming election. It is true now, as in the past, that there are many men in both of the two great parties who are fully qualified to fill that exalted office, and our Nation should be truly thankful that it has so many men fitted for this and other high offices at a time when great leaders are needed as never before. But in advocating the candidacy of any person it is to be hoped that the speaker and writer will do so without vilifying the memory of any of our great leaders who are dead.

Very few statesmen will stoop to this sort of character assassination, but once in awhile a politician of the lower rank, in advocating the candidacy of some person, will attempt to show up the fitness of his candidate by belittling the record of some predecessor who is now sleeping the long sleep.

Any such attacks upon the record of our statesmen who have passed on to the great beyond is recognized everywhere as the cheapest sort of politics, to say the least. An attack of this sort was recently made and it is to be hoped that no man will again resort to any such tactics.

DIAGNOSIS.

"H'm," says my doctor, "nothing very wrong,
Chest clear, heart good and pulse exceeding strong;
Blood pressure normal, muscles still are spry,
Still I'd suggest you'd better give up pie.

"Tonsils are healthy, respiration firm;
I find no trace of any deadly germ.
The pictures prove no tooth of yours is dead;
Still I suggest you'd better give up bread.

"The spinal column shows no weakening sign;
I'll swear your eyesight is as good as mine.
You normally respond to cold and heat;
Still I suggest you'd better give up meat."

So to stay well I give up this and that,
Frown on the lean and scorn the oily fat;
Forego the starches, spurn the coffee cup,
And make each day one round of giving up.

What at the last when through the list I've run
And nothing else remains for me to shun?
Shall I, deprived of things I've relished most,
Just close the case by giving up the ghost?

MERGER OF COUNTY OFFICES PROPOSED

Prince Georges Association Also Asks for Halt in Bond Issues.

Suggestions that no new county bond issues be sold and that the commissioners try to consolidate some of the county offices are included in a list of economies indorsed by the Prince Georges County Taxpayer's Association, meeting at Mitchellville, Md.

The association also asks that it be allowed to go over the county school budget for 1932 and recommend cuts before it is approved by the county commissioners. The association suggested that the county school bond issue of $275,000 should not be sold at this time. This issue was withdrawn from sale just before the association's meeting, due to the depressed condition of the bond market. Authorities do not plan to offer it for sale again until the market is considerably improved.

The other county bond issue referred to is the one to take advantage of the Cramton enabling act, giving the county approximately $1,800,000 for buying and developing parks. The commissioners have made no intimation that they plan to issue $800,000 in bonds required to receive the remainder of the sum from the State and Federal Government.

No definite proposals were made as to what county offices might be combined, but it is believed that the county demonstration agent, the health office, and possibly the county farm agent's office might be studied if the commissioners approve of this suggestion.

2 Liens Threaten Baltimore Opera

Mrs. Wilson-Green Enters $1,800 Claim; Hotels Here Seek $180.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 11.—With two liens plastered on box office receipts and a restive audience waiting 45 minutes for the first curtain to rise on Verdi's "Rigoletto," representatives of the Cosmopolitan Opera Company, Mrs. Wilson-Greene, of Washington, and the Auditorium Theater tonight debated whether the opera should go on.

It was learned that Mrs. Wilson-Greene, under whose management the company sang in Washington last week, had put in a claim for $1,800 due her. There also was another for $180 due two Washington hotels, it was said.

After Mrs. Wilson-Greene, reached in Washington, agreed to withdraw the lien temporarily and the theater management guaranteed the payment of the hotel bills and salaries due to chorus, the show went on.

William F. Joyce and Wife Honored by Family on 50th Anniversary.

A happy family gathered last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Joyce, in Camp Springs, Md., to take part in festivities at the celebration of the couple's golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Joyce were married 50 years ago in Browns Mills, Burlington County, N. J. They came to Washington around 1894, and a short time later Mr. Joyce started a truck-gardening business in Congress Heights near the present site of Bolling Field.

When the Government bought his property to make way for the Army aviation base Mr. Joyce took his family to Camp Springs. He renewed his business there and now has one of the largest truck-gardening interests near Washington.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Joyce are natives of New Jersey. They have nine grown children and eighteen grandchildren. During their 50 years of married life it has been a custom to hold a family reunion three times every year, but they had an extra surprise when the entire family came from far and near last night to join in the celebration.

ALEXANDRIA HALTS AUTO TAG ARRESTS

Receives Carolina Telegram and Will Await Word From Other States.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The awkward predicament in which nine District of Columbia and Virginia motorists found themselves when they were stopped by the Alexandria police and their cars held because they bore North Carolina, New York or Maryland tags which were out of date, was relieved yesterday by receipt of a telegram by Judge William S. Snow, of the police court, from C. C. Farmer, chief of the North Carolina highway patrol, reading:

"Owing to strenuous financial conditions, State authorities are not arresting motorists for 1931 tags."

Practically all of these cases had been continued until today prior to the receipt of this telegram, pending word from the North Carolina authorities, and the court instructed the police that until further instructions are received from other States through the motor division of Virginia, no further arrests will be made of out-of-State persons driving on 1931 licenses.

Only one of the North Carolina men arrested Sunday was fined, it being shown that he was in Alexandria last year, and the court held that he should have provided himself with Virginia tags.

Dr. W. Lewis Schafer, Alexandria health officer, reports 802 persons were treated at the clinic at the health office last month. Three cases of scarlet fever were reported, 1 of tuberculosis and 1 of chickenpox. During December there were 46 births and 25 deaths.

C. Ervin Brooks has been elected president of the Valiant Knights Bible Class of the First Baptist Church of Alexandria; other officers are: Archie J. Millan, vice president; George F. Bartlett, secretary; Lawrence Fair, assistant secretary; Robert H. Cox was chosen teacher for the fifteenth consecutive term.

Mrs. Charles A. Strauss, legislative chairman of the Alexandria Business and Professional Women's Club, will have charge of the program at 7 o'clock this evening in George Mason Hotel.

Hyattsville Denies Apartment Zoning

Change to Permit Building Near School Fails to Win Council.

The town council of Hyattsville last night disapproved an application for a zoning change to permit the erection of an apartment building in the vicinity of the Hyattsville High School, holding that such a building should be placed away from a school.

The application was filed by the O. B. Zantzinger interests and asked that the lot on Wine avenue, at Arundel avenue, be changed from residential A to residential C in zoning. While the decision of the council is not final, the Park and Planning Commission was notified of their disapproval.

J. Spence Howard, the town engineer, presented plans for improving the grade at Guy avenue and the Baltimore boulevard, and these were approved. Councilman E. W. Gover asked that the street lights be burned all night. This change, which would involve burning the lights from 2 o'clock onward, will cost about $1,100 extra a year, it was estimated.

W. R. Wilson was warned that unless he repairs curbs near his home within ten days the council will take legal action against him. He appeared before the council last night to request the opening of Avalon avenue from Wine avenue to Cecil street and this was referred to the road committee.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"CAPRICORN."

IF January 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:35 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 10:10 a. m. to 11:40 a. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:45 p. m.

An ordinary day and the carrying out of routine duties and preconceived plans are augured for January 12. Man's will more than destiny will be the molder of events. A time of fertile ideas for those who wield the pen, and publicity men and journalists are in for more than the usual success.

Children born on this January 12 will be precocious and will soon discard babyish ways. They will be courageous and stronghearted, resourceful and intellectual. They will be generous and affectionate, and will get along well with their associates.

Readers born on January 12 will have quiet, plodding natures and will come by their rewards through sheer hard work, indomitable perseverance and a quality of intellect which, moving slowly and deliberately, attains a sure and successful end. Others score through brilliant play, daring feats and lightning appreciation of opportunity, but you must do things with deliberation and less spectacular methods. Your staying qualities, your accuracy, and absolute dependability are of more value in many positions than more originality and speed. You are not meant to fill an inferior role, but it may be one behind the scenes.

You do not haggle with life and you do not dispute with inevitable happenings. You take your problems as they come each day and solve each in the best way you know. You carry on a rational life in a philosophical and fairly happy way. You do not brood over your misfortunes, but try to "carry on" with at least an outward smile. You are not given to introspection, and your mind's energy, generally speaking, is directed outward, not inward.

If you are a man you have an inherent and temperamental shyness in the presence of women. You are fearful of the power and influence they exert upon your life. You are by nature a man's man.

Successful people born January 12:

John Winthrop, first colonial Governor of Massachusetts.

John Hancock, statesman.

Martin Maria, Roman Catholic bishop.

Wilbur Fisk Crafts, author and clergyman.

John S. Sargent, artist.

Thomas Moran, artist.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me how to grow asparagus sprengeri in the house.

MRS. EARL P. L.

Asparagus sprengeri grows best in a sunny window where the long, lacy branches have an opportunity to droop over the edge of the pot. It is a splendid plant to grow in a pot or basket suspended from the top of the window. You can even grow it successfully in a wire basket filled with sphagnum moss. It should be watered every day and the surface soil in the pot should be kept well loosened.

Please tell me how large a piece I must have to succesfully start an aspidistra plant. Evry time I attempt to separate a plant it dies.

ELSIE F. W.

An aspidistra may be easily propagated by dividing the root. The secret of success is that you must have a leaf with each piece of the root. Use a soil composed of good loam, sand and manure in equal parts. Be sure to use plenty of drainage material. Water the plants daily for about four weeks after starting. After that, they will get along if given water every other day.

Is it true that grapevines may be pruned, without danger, any time after the leaves drop in the fall?

MRS. WILLIAM D.

Yes, they may be pruned between the time when the leaves fall and the spring, when the buds begin to swell, provided the wood is not actually frozen at the time. Pruning should be delayed until after a heavy freeze in the fall so that immature wood will be killed and withered and can thus easily be identified and removed.

Each year I lose some tubers of various kinds while they are in my cellar. Is there any way to counteract this?

ANNA N. L.

All varieties of tubers while in storage should be gone over about once in six weeks. When you see signs of decay cut out the bad spots and sprinkle the incision with sulphur.

What causes a begonia to rot off at the root? My plants frequently do this and I have several friends whose begonias do the same thing.

MRS. SAMUEL D.

When a begonia rots off at the root it is usually a case of too much water. When such a malady develops, immediately try setting the plant in a sunnier place and giving it less water. If this treatment does not have the desired effect, cut it back to the root.

Please tell me when to cut a blue-flowering hydrangea. BILLY W. L.

The hydrangea should seldom be pruned. If you cut off the terminal buds you will destroy the flowers. Of course, if you wish to prune the bush because of size, you will have to go without flowers the next year. If the terminal buds are winter-killed, these plants fail to flower. It is therefore wise, if you leave your plants in the open, to give them some protection, such as straw or burlap. It is because growers realize that they are not reliably hardy that they are now advocating growing them in lawn tubs, which can be carried indoors before frost.

We have some evergreens which have been attacked by red spider. What do you suggest doing to get rid of these insects? MARION P. T.

(Copyright, 1932.)

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied

Art Interprets the Mode

New York, Jan. 11.

IN a letter from the house of Worth, in Paris, I noted this: "It is amazing, the vogue for red. At a grand gala at the Opera National a few days ago red appeared in every row and in every box, in one form or another."

So-o-o-o-o-o? Well, and I have something more to say about red, too. This fascinating color has to be used with much taste and discretion, or it will simply sway with its wearer—than which no color dares do! Red, for instance, can not be worn by the bold, black-haired and red-lipped type without so far accentuating her coloring that she is no longer discreet. Nor can it be worn by palely colored types without snuffing them out completely.

And as to where and how much red to wear—well, red gloves or a red flower or a red scarf—one only to a costume, mind you—is the limit for chic. When one wears an all-red costume, of course, accessories should be really all red for elegance. Darker red excepted—for this, especially in heavy, somber fabrics, can be trimmed with black or silver fox or sable or mink or blue fox.

So-o-o, in the mode, then, which never considers the individual (depending upon the individual to take care of herself), red is rather prominent. The darker shades, of course, for daytime and the brighter shades in dresses for evening, although evening wraps and coats continue to be in the richer and darker shades of red. And almost every woman enjoys having at least one red garment in her wardrobe. Choose your red carefully then, both as to shade and as to what you can best wear in red, and there, my dahr-ling, you exactly are!

* * * *

S'posing you never sewed anything without a pattern 'n' you never found a pattern that even began to tell you how to make a chemise and pantie shorts out of a yard and a quarter of material, 'n' you wanted to make some new undies, too; what would you do? Well, you would do nothing else but send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you exactly how to make these two pieces of lingerie out of no more than a yard and a quarter of material for both of them. And you would make your own pattern in unbleached muslin from this leaflet, 'n' then you would make the undies, and there you would be!

* * * *

It's surprising how much red one sees this winter! Mirande makes this perfectly darling model in lightweight red wool and, as though its chic little bows in the back and its general lines weren't enough, a specially designed scarf of red, white, black and green wool decided to be worn with it!

* * * *

And Phillippe et Gaston think that black and white patent leather, fashioned as I illustrated in the corner, is a good idea. We agree! The patent leather makes the collar and the belt, you see, and they are worn on a woolen dress.

Lace Lore.

The popularity of Chantilly lace has seemingly been revived by the Second Empire styles. Chantilly lace is black or white and, in either color, is also called "Point de Caën" and "Point de Bretagne." I just must tell you more about Chantilly lace tomorrow—if I don't forget it.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

TULAREMIA IN ILLINOIS.

A VERY good illustration of the customary heedlessness of people is supplied by the recent history of human tularemia in Illinois. In that State human tularemia is a rabbit-borne disease, and no other animal is responsible for human infection, so far as is known. This fact has been published repeatedly. Detailed information has been extensively circulated.

These stories have told of the seriousness of the disease and its considerable prevalence at certain seasons of the year. Some warnings have stated that the time of greatest prevalence was coincident with the open season for hunting rabbits. The stories have told how sick rabbits acted and which rabbits should not be killed; or, if killed, should be left out of the game bag. The danger of skinning rabbits, cutting them up and cooking them has been given.

To add interest, the stages of human tularemia and its course have been given: How it was first recognized in Utah, and, in that section, was called deer fly fever; how its prevalence was related to an epidemic among jack rabbits and some began calling it rabbit fever; how it was found in Tulare County, California, its cause was there determined and the name tularemia given it; how it was next discovered that it prevailed among rabbit butchers in Washington, D. C., and, finally, how it was found to prevail everywhere in America, at least everywhere that the humble rabbit supplied our sportsmen with opportunity for play and doubled as a by no means negligible source of food and raiment.

All this was told repeatedly, and yet—the open season for rabbits began November 10. People began slaughtering rabbits that day. That night they were being skinned and butchered. The incubation period of tularemia in the human subject is about seven days. About November 18 cases of human tularemia were developing. By November 25 the diagnoses were being made and the reports of cases were being received at the State health department. By December 1 the State health news carried a story telling of the considerable number of cases of tularemia known to be prevailing in the State. They warned the people again to avoid killing sick rabbits and to throw away any game that acted or appeared sick before slaughter, or the carcass or organs of which did not look right.

MANY PROBABLE CAUSES.

E. E. E. writes: What causes my tongue to swell at night, so that I am awakened with a terrible pain in the tip of it and the gums from my teeth back to the palate are actually sore. Though over 50, I still have my teeth, and they are in good condition.

AN ICE EATER.

W. K. writes: Is is harmful to eat ice—say three or four cubes at a sitting?

Is there any objection to drinking ice water at meals or between meals?

REPLY.

Probably not. We eat ice cream and other frozen foods and keep healthy. Americans who drink ice water are about as healthy as Britishers who put their ice in their "tubs." Hawk seems to have proved that variation of temperature of foods, within reasonable limits, it of no consequence.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

READING THE LANGUAGE OF BIDS.

SUCCESSFUL play of Contract Bridge absolutely demands a sound system of bidding. Brilliant play is interesting. Spectacular results cause comment at the Bridge table, but the brilliant player, in addition to his brilliancy, should also be a good partner to be a winning player. Contract success is based upon a sound understanding between the partners—it is here that the value of a system of bidding is clearly demonstrated.

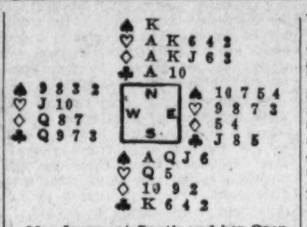
Recently, at the convention of Culbertson teachers in New York, I saw a hand played in one of the Duplicate events which disclosed how strangers using the same system of bidding may reach high contracts with scarcely an element of risk. Certainly the element of risk was much less than the results sought. Four ladies from Southern States had arranged to play as members of a team of four in one of the Duplicate events on that program. One member of the team was unable to be present, so a young man from Philadelphia was chosen to fill the vacancy. The talk between the two partners was brief. Mrs. Merideth Jerow, of Norfolk, Va., was to play with Mr. Francis White, of Philadelphia.

"Of course," said Mrs. Jerow, "we will play the Culbertson System, but don't you think we should be conservative until we see how we get along together?"

"I certainly do," responded Mr. White, and the cards were picked up by the players.

South—Dealer.

Both sides are vulnerable.



Mrs. Jerow sat South and her Opening bid was one spade. West passed and Mr. White gazed with fascination at his 5 honor-tricks plus and made the correct response of three hearts, a Forcing Takeout. South, to deny the possession of any additional strength not shown by the Opening bid, responded with three notrump and hoped that her new partner would be willing to let the contract rest there as her hand promised nothing beyond a game. Mr. White, however, was not through. He bid four diamonds, inviting his partner to select best support. His partner lacked adequate support for either, hence responded with four notrump. The game limit had been reached and passed and now Mr. White, throwing conservatism to the winds, made the final bid on the hand.

"Seven notrump" was his bid, "and," he added as the Dummy went down, "you have to play it."

The bid of a Grand Slam with this hand can only be justified through the fact that it was a match between teams-of-four," the result of which is determined by a comparison of the scores of the bidding teams. Mr. White rightly reasoned that a Small Slam bid with the North and South holdings was inevitable. His bid of seven notrump was much too strong, although the bid of one spade by Mrs. Jerow, which opened the spectacular contracting, showed 2½ honor-tricks plus. In other words, Mrs. Jerow could not have opened on a bare 2½ honor-trick. Thus, her hand must contain at least the Ace of spades, the King of clubs, two Queens and at least a Knave, or in lieu thereof, a long spade suit. Length in spades was denied by the fact that Mrs. Jerow never rebid that suit. Hence, her hand must be stronger in honors to justify the Opening bid. If either of the Queens in her hand were in a red suit, it would probably establish that suit with no losers. Even if that failed, there remained a finesse in the diamond suit. The contract was made, although as the hand shows, its success depended upon the diamond finesse. The more conservative bid of six notrump should have been the final bid, but the fortunate distribution of the key suit permitted the making of the contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Question: What is a finesse?

Answer: Finesse is the attempt to win an extra trick by utilizing the position of high cards in relation to opposing honors.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

A Young Man's Darling!

DEAR Frances McDonald: I have been an interested reader of your department for a long time but have never written to you before as I had no serious problems to ask about. But now that you have especially invited happily married wives to speak up I can't resist the temptation to tell my experiences.

Ten years ago I had fully made up my mind to be "an old maid" for I had just had a rather disillusioning love affair. Then my landlady introduced me to a young friend of hers. We were mutually attracted from the first and soon fell in love. We had known each other less than three months when he first proposed marriage to me, but though I felt I loved him, I hesitated about answering because he was foreign born and two years younger. My parents and most of my friends discouraged me because of these two reasons and one old lady took me aside and told me what a violent temper he had and that my life would probably even be in danger.

Well, I finally said "yes" and we were married nearly eight years ago and from that day to this I have never regretted it. This letter is not a testimonial that all international marriages are a success. But I can say that my husband is kind, considerate, a good provider though we are not rich, and above all else a good father. We have a boy nearly 7 years old who adores his daddy and what more could I want?

How do I keep him a model husband, if there is such a thing, for we all have some faults? In the first place I don't boss him and in the second place I don't try to make him account for every minute he is away from me. I think these two things wreck many marriages. Another thing is that we have never lived anywhere near either his people nor mine. We have thus been free to work out marriage by ourselves. My husband has often told me that I hold him because of the freedom I allow him. I always answer that he wouldn't be worth having unless I could trust him.

By the way, Mrs. R. D. H., I happen to be married to a man two years younger but I am not a "slave" by any means! MRS. MARY D. P.

Dear Frances McDonald: Why do they talk of being "an old man's darling or a young man's slave?" I married 12 years ago against the advice of every one who by hook or crook happened to hear of my intentions. From the grocer on the corner to the pastor of our church I was warned that misery and plenty of it awaited the woman who marries any man younger than herself. It had me worried sick for I never felt like marrying before. No one ever gave me the sense of being the one and only, and the real dependable, forever and ever one that this fellow did. I felt contented to just sit and read to him, or take a long walk with him, not to mention the joy of hearing his words of love. But there was the whole world wagging its head at me, and rolling its eyes in warning. He was seven years younger!

But we did; 12 years ago. And he still tells me how insipid all girls seem to him, compared with me. We have a little daughter and he is always saying that he is so glad she has my ways and looks as she will know where she is going and be nobody's fool. He is just as proud of us as he can be. So what does all the rumpus about a "young man's slave" mean? Am I the first woman who was ever a young man's darling? For believe it or not, that is just what I am. And how! MRS. BILLY.

P. S. He is hereby entered in the Perfect Husband Class too!

MRS. B.

Hurray! Any more who have found that a wife may be lots older and still hold her own with the flapper competition? We would welcome further information on this, as a great many older girls are asking us for advice on the subject of marrying younger men. It seems as if the lads are turning away from the younger girls and going in for the girl of 28 or 30—and in a big way! Sir! Wedding bells and all. One girl of 31 who "was just pleasant" to a new young man in the office three years ago, is now trying to convince him that his three years devotion can not be love He is 24 and can see no one but the girl of 31. What about it? If you married a man younger than yourself, tell us all how it turned out. Would you advise another to do the same?

WHY FAT Is Disappearing

Excess fat is disappearing, as you know. You see it in every circle. Countless people, once over-fat, have gained new beauty, youth and vim. And these happy people have not resorted to abnormal exercise or diet.

One great reason lies in a modern medical discovery. Science has found that excess fat is largely due to a scanty gland secretion. It has much to do with nutrition. Without it, too little food turns to fuel and energy, too much piles up fat.

Now doctors, the world over, supply that lacking factor. Conditions change at once. And millions of people show and tell the benefits.

Marmola prescription tablets are based on that factor. They are prepared by a world-famous medical laboratory to fit the average case. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. Users have told others the results. Now Marmola tablets hold supreme place as a treatment for obesity.

Use this right method. Stop all methods hard or futile. Correct the cause. Watch the fat go, watch your vim return. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. A book in each box gives the formula, and explains the amazing results. Act now. The results may quickly multiply your joys of life.

"Her Nerves are Ragged . . . She Can't Face Another Day of Work"

"I can't go through another day . . . oh, what is the matter? What shall I do"? Did you ever feel this way yourself?

Nearly Nervous Prostration

DO you know her . . . this poor woman who wakes up as tired as she went to bed?

Her head is still aching . . . her nerves are ragged . . . she's on the verge of tears as she faces another day of work.

"I can't go through it again . . . I can't. Oh, what is the matter? What shall I do?" she cries.

How many young women are fast approaching a nervous breakdown because they let suffering due to female weakness rob them of their strength and health.

In offices or in their homes, they drive themselves, working "on their nerve." Hoping against hope that tomorrow they will feel better . . . but instead they become more and more prostrated.

It is a double tragedy because it is so unnecessary.

Nature did not mean women to suffer so cruelly. If they would only try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound! It has befriended women against their "peculiar" troubles for over 50 years.

It brings soothing, comforting relief . . . gently corrects through its strengthening tonic action the cause of the headaches and backaches that wear you out. Drives away the awful lassitude that kills ambition and makes life a burden.

This simple, safe remedy has justly earned its place in the Family Medicine Cabinet.

Won't you listen to the testimony of thousands of women who use it?

Give it at least one chance to help you. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Or, try it in the new, convenient tablet form.

DOWNING'S HEARING DEFERRED TO JAN. 19

Court Postpones Hyattsville Case to Get Facts on Bondsman.

A preliminary hearing given Justice of the Peace John A. Downing, of Hyattsville, on charges of malfeasance in office was continued yesterday after Andrew L. Moye, of Washington, had told how Judge Downing blocked his efforts to obtain his release on bond.

Judge Thomas D. Griffith continued the hearing to January 19 to give a bondsman time to consult his records and obtain certain information. Downing was represented by Attorneys J. Enos Ray and Arthur C. Keefer.

Moye, who gave his address as 4403 Fourth street northwest, was arrested on charges of driving while drunk and for reckless driving after an accident in which another man was injured seriously. He testified he was in jail for three days. Milton Brewer, a Hyattsville bondsman, told of his attempts to gain Moye's release, as did Neuman Dudrow, another Hyattsville bondsman. Dudrow is vice president of the Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co., of which the defense attorney, J. Enos Ray, is president.

Brewer was asked several questions about his financial status at the time he attempted to bail Moye out, but was unable to answer without consulting his books, which he did not have with him.

The lawyers for Downing tried to bring out what property the bondsman owned, whether there were any forfeited bonds against it and whether there were any other encumbrances against it. Dudrow testified he went to Downing's office to ask why Brewer's bond was refused and was ordered out by the magistrate.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

By NELSON B. BELL.

"MOURNING BECOMES ELECTRA." The Theater Guild, inc., presents a trilogy by Eugene O'Neill: Part I, "Homecoming," a play in four scenes; part II, "The Hunted," a play in five scenes; part III, "The Haunted," a play in five scenes;—featuring Florence Reed, Judith Anderson, Crane Wilbur, Thurston Hall and Walter Abel, supported by Eric Kalkhurst, Bernice Elliott, Seth Arnold, Beatrice Moreland, Beatrice Maude, George W. Callahan, Harry Hermsen, Cameron King and Forrest Zimmer. The production directed by Philip Moeller; settings and costumes designed by Robert Edmond Jones. At the National Theater.

While this stupendous work stamps Eugene O'Neill as the most technically proficient playright this generation, and perhaps many to come, will encounter in the American theater, it leaves him still the high priest of morbidity whose ear is most delicately attuned to life's negative overtones.

Whether or not "Mourning Becomes Electra" translates the theme of the ageless Greek tragedies of Aeschylus and Euripides faithfully into terms of modern theater is beside the point that its macabre content presents much that is repugnant, thoroughly abnormal and all but unbelievable. Yet, through the wizardry of an author who is able to sustain theme, character and mood through fourteen scenes that are in fact short acts, it all becomes vital and tremendously interesting drama. Somber, psychologically and physiologically repulsive, yes, but with a driving, cumulative, irresistible power that compels unwavering attention through more than five hours of actual playing time. In every essential particular, this gloomy trilogy is the superior of that earlier monumental work of the same prodigiously prolific author, "Strange Interlude."

The crimes and other profoundly disturbing events in which the lives of the Mannon family are so closely bound up at the close of the Civil War, are threaded with ingenious and perfect technique through the action of the three plays forming the trilogy—"Homecoming," "The Hunted" and "The Haunted." They are, of course, as all such tragic dramas must be, predicated upon a shocking premise of thoroughly abnormal family relationships that can be so manipulated as to cause the mother, Christine Mannon, to conspire with her lover, Capt. Adam Brant, to murder her husband, Ezra, on the night of his return from the Union front; to cause the son Orin, to murder his mother's lover and her to commit suicide, an example followed by her son, driven insane by the burden of guilt upon his conscience.

Lavinia Mannon alone is left of all her ill-fated stock to atone by a living death of isolated self-abnegation for the misery which she, as the symbol of tragedy, has brought to those about her. The final curtain descends upon the pathetically moving spectacle of her self-immolation.

Although slight uncertainties in lines occasionally manifested themselves, the exhausting task imposed by the fourteen acts of the trilogy's three divisions upon those in the pivotal roles of the three plays was discharged with high credit to all concerned last evening.

As Christine Mannon, Florence Reed contributes a characterization that combines the cunning of a Borgia with the murderous courage of a Lady Macbeth—a variegated, shrewd and forceful performance that easily dominates those intervals of the first two plays of the trilogy in which hers is a salient and a motivating figure. Judith Anderson, in the role of "Vinnie," her daughter, born of disgust and nurtured on hatred, adheres to the author's description of the character by playing her early scenes with the unrelenting iciness of an ominous and forbidding monosyllabic automaton. The last of the three plays, "The Haunted," however, is completely hers and establishes her extremely difficult undertaking as one of the most successfully accomplished of the evening.

Crane Wilbur and Thurston Hall, as Capt. Brant, a Mannon upon whose name is the stigma of the bar sinister, and Gen. Ezra Mannon, respectively, perform their less pretentious functions with equal effectiveness, leaving Walter Abel to achieve the masculine triumph of the compound drama as Orin. He and Lavinia supply the intricate character studies that serve as the media of the trilogy's involved but indispensable psychological development.

Among the supporting players Seth Arnold, as Seth Beckwith, the sagacious old gardner on the Mannon estate; Eric Kalkhurst, Bernice Elliott, George W. Callahan and Cameron King, in the brief bit of the drunken chantyman, deserve commendatory notice for useful and illuminating portraitures.

The three plays have been directed with rare expertness by Philip Moeller, and Robert Edmond Jones has provided a half dozen settings that are perfectly appointed and wholly in keeping with the period, the spirit and the movement of the threefold drama.

"Mourning Becomes Electra," is an unique experience in the modern theater that need not be shunned through any ill-founded fear of boredom. Not all of the fourteen acts may be perfectly cut gems of drama, but none is uninteresting. One, played over the bier of the deceased but visible Ezra Mannon, will be found ghastly in its chilling realism.

GAYETY

"DIMPLED DARLINGS." Ed E. Daley's burlesque presentation with Hy Heath, Joe Van, Raymond King, Joan Lee, Flo Hanley and Dolly Glenn. "Peaches" Browning special added guest star. Reviewed Monday night by William L. Wright.

The one and only "Peaches" Browning is the big attraction that is filling all seats and turning away hundreds at every performance of "Dimpled Darlings," at the Gayety. Jimmy Lake, manager of the popular Ninth street house, is singing "Happy Days Are Here Again," for all-time house records bid fair to be broken before the week is out.

"Peaches," a pretty blonde, with a charming personality, is right at home on the stage. Her easy manner and pleasing voice win much applause from a bored and cold audience. Two songs especially written for her, "Everything Is Peaches Now" and "It's Good to Be Single Again," are well presented and leave every one satisfied.

"Dimpled Darlings" has little to offer as entertainment. Two long acts that need drastic changes to pep them up comprise this offering.

Joan Lee turns in a very creditable performance and gets most of the applause. Hy Heath and Joe Van struggle manfully with the comedy, but only two scenes click.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

THE hard-riding, sun-tanned men of the cow country are galloping back to the screen!

The suave, sleek gang leaders and their machine-gun killers almost replaced them for a time, but gradually are giving ground before the men who tamed America's frontiers.

Scoffers may call the cowboy films "horse operas" all they like, but those who buy their way past the box offices in small towns and neighborhood theaters of the big cities like clean, red-blooded action in the great out-of-doors. The boys and girls who save their dimes and quarters for Saturday matinees thrill to the big sombreros and chaps—those are the shaggy pants the hard-riders wear in case you had forgotten—the tinkle of spurs and the clatter of hoofs.

The point of all this, of course, is that the Western film is coming back, but with a new formula. The hero is as quick as ever on the draw, but he uses his skill chiefly as a threat. When he fights, it usually is with his fists. He is a two-fisted, rather than a two-gun, man and he needs no liquor to key himself up in the face of danger. The "bad men" do most of the smoke-wagon and hard-drinking stuff!

The talkies dealt the Westerns a harder blow than gangster competition, but the difficulties of recording sound in the open largely have been overcome.

Tom Mix turned to the circus for two years when the talkies came and a ruptured appendix has further delayed his return to films. Within a few weeks, however, he will begin making the first of a series of six pictures, for which he will receive a reported $150,000 each.

Buck Jones is making his sixteenth picture for one studio and has a schedule of eight a year.

The Jones films have turned out so well this same studio has placed Tim McCoy under a three-year contract, calling for eight pictures a year. Ken Maynard has just completed a series of eight and is about to start another of six.

Hoot Gibson, who had bad luck after the expiration of one contract, has just completed six pictures for an independent producer and is to make eight more, dividing his time between air and Western films. Two of his stories were written by Peter B. Kyne.

Tom Keene is on the fourth of a series of eight films. Jack Hoxie, Bob Steele, Tom Tyler, Bill Cody and Buffalo Bill, jr., are making about eight pictures each a year.

Then in Westerns, with perhaps less action and more romance, have been Warner Baxter and his Cisco Kid impersonations, and George O'Brien, seen chiefly in the Zane Grey adaptations.

The rodeo influence is becoming stronger in all the Westerns. With their turn from repeated gun play, there is more bronco-busting and plain and fancy roping, but still plenty of rugged, he-man fighting.

During that Saturday interview with Belle Bennett, at RKO-Keith's, I remarked upon the beauty of Lois Moran's voice as it came over the radio on one of Rudy Vallee's broadcasts last week and was apprised by Miss Bennett, to whom Miss Moran always refers as her "second mother," that the screen has done even less well by Miss Moran's dancing than it has by her voice. Miss Moran, it seems, is one who must be seen and heard in the flesh to be appreciated at her true worth as an artiste.

This incidentally is no less true of Miss Bennett.

Speaking of RKO-Keith's, on Wednesday of this week, Belle Bennett, Johnny Perkins, Ruth Petty and the Three Neal Sisters, all featured on the vaudeville portion of the program, will be luncheon guests at the National Press Club.

There is no other artiste on the stage, I dare say, who takes such immediate cognizance of favorable press notices as Ruth Etting, star of the current stage bill at the Fox. The mails are not fast enough to accommodate Miss Etting's grateful purposes. She wires the reviewers her thanks, thus proving herself the most thoughtful as well as most popular of our songstresses.

"For the sixth time," the Nation announces in its issue of January 6, "as its roll of merit for the year just passed, the Nation presents a list, by no means a final one, of American men and women who have by public service, contributions to art or science, or additions to the gayety of nations, deserved in some measure the thanks of their fellow citizens.

"Two playwrights are honored, Eugene O'Neill and S. N. Behrman for 'Brief Moment,' a suave and intelligent play which demonstrates its author's right to a place in the great tradition of high comedy."

Wednesday night's will be the seventy-fifth performance of Francine Larrimore and her suporting company, including Robert Douglas, Louis Calhern and Alexander Woollcott, in Guthrie McClintic's production of this play at the Belasco Theater, New York.

With Mr. O'Neill putting on one of his marathon murder masterpieces at 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon, you couldn't expect much in the way of a column the same day, now could you?

NEW YORK ECONOMY IS HELD IMPERATIVE

Comptroller Says Mayor Must Cut Funds Before Banks Will Lend.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—New York City must put drastic economies into effect before it can borrow money for unemployment relief and other city needs, Comptroller Charles W. Berry said today just before Mayor Walker met with his departmental heads to "talk over" the financial situation.

The comptroller's statement was tersely worded and he put responsibility for action up to the mayor.

"Up to the present time I have not been able to obtain the necessary funds because the financial institutions are demanding that the city put in effect an economy program before they will advance any money, and such a program is awaiting action by the mayor."

Mum on Subway Rise.

All concerned in the negotiations avoided any reference to a possible rise in subway fares to meet the emergency. The bankers have decided such intention although Thomas W. Lamont, of the firm of J. P. Morgan, said in a formal statement that the city must make every effort to "transform existing enterprises which are not now self-supporting into ones that will carry themselves."

Observers pointed out that while subways were not specifically mentioned in the statement, the rapid transit lines of the B. M. T. and I. R. T. are the largest enterprises that come within the Lamont category.

Statement by Mayor.

Mayor Walker's conference with his associates lasted an hour and a half and at its conclusion the mayor dictated a statement in which he made no reference to the banks or subways.

He said he had asked all department heads and borough presidents to review their budget allowances and "establish the most rigid economy, compatible with the necessities of the city."

He added that the "necessities will be reviewed in the order of their importance" and asked the public not to "presume that projects and necessities heretofore authorized will be abandoned, though it may be wise at this time to defer many of them."

Woman Questioned In 4 Men's Deaths

Is Alleged to Have Killed 2 Children Also, and Buried Bodies.

Youngstown, Ohio, Jan. 11 (A.P.). A 55-year-old woman was being questioned tonight about the deaths of four men in her household in the last six years. She was taken into custody late today after a neighbor told police he believed she had killed "four husbands and two children," burying their bodies in a garden. She was booked on suspicion at police headquarters as officers sought to verify the allegations. She denied all accusations.

The woman told reporters her first husband died six years ago, leaving no insurance. A second died in Massillon two years ago, leaving $1,000 in insurance. A boarder, who fell dead on the way to work, and another boarder, 72, who died in her home December 11, 1930, each left her $1,000 in insurance, she said.

She said nothing of the two children.

Chicago Graft Trial Bares Overcharge

Jewelry Store Prices Paid for Hardware Articles, Affidavits Show.

Chicago, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Jewelry store prices paid for hardware store merchandise were disclosed today in testimony at the Chicago Sanitary District graft conspiracy trial.

Pails at $100 a dozen, rakes at $90 a dozen, brushes at $1,075 each, and $1.50 each for file holders regularly priced at 2¼ cents were some of the fancy prices paid by the district during the 1927-28 so-called "whoopee era," State exhibits indicated.

Charles K. Garner, a sales manager for a wholesale hardware firm, testified through affidavits that on approximately $104,000 paid by the district for hardware, the overcharge was about $60,000.

Timothy J. Crowe is the chief defendant of the eight on trial, all former or present trustees.

American Held in China As Smuggler of Opium

Shanghai, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Paul Crowley, an American, was arrested today charged with smuggling opium into the United States with the aid of a Navy man aboard the U. S. S. Chaumont.

Charges filed by United States Attorney George Sellett here alleged Crowley sent 55 tins of opium from China to San Francisco aboard the transport Chaumont between August 11 and September 13, 1931. Sellett said Crowley was assisted by a naval man, but did not name him. Crowley is being held pending deposit of a $10,000 gold bond. His trial will be held in the local American court.

Soviet Again Tries For Canada Trade

$5,000,000 Order Figures in Effort to Reestablish Business Relations.

Montreal, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The Montreal Star today said the Soviet government, offering as an immediate inducement a $5,000,000 order for the Quebec aluminum industry, is again endeavoring to reestablish trade relations with Canada.

"The terms of the offer," the Star said, "are understood to be acceptance by the aluminum interests of $2,000,000 worth of Russian coal in exchange, the balance to be paid in gold or upon credit terms agreeable to the Canadian companies.

"Already the proposal has been placed before the Quebec government and is receiving the consideration of Premier Taschereau and Athanase David, provincial secretary. Arrangements are being made to bring it similarly before the Bennett government at Ottawa.

"The Russian end of the negotiations is being conducted by Amtorg, Soviet official trading agency in New York."

Tallahatchie Flood Moves Southward

Levee Workers Accompany River to Avert New Catastrophe.

Glendora, Miss., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The crest of Tallahatchie River flood water tumbled southward over the lower reaches of the valley tonight and with it went an army of levee workers bent on preventing recurrence of the catastrophe it wrought farther northward.

Laborers were concentrating on the Wade plantation, a few miles south of Minter City, and on the Yalobusha River levee at Whaley, about twelve miles northeast of Greenwood.

There is a new overflow at Swift Town in extreme northwest Leflore County, but the situation at no point today was described as critical. Hundreds of refugees, who were driven from their homes in the lowlands of the upper valley, principally in Tippo Basin, have returned to their homes.

STOCK PRICES RALLY AS RAILS LEAD RISE

Market Picks Up Advance Again Despite Considerable Profit Taking.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Financial markets picked up the thread of the advance again today, although only the railroad securities could follow it very far.

Rail stocks, obviously affected by the approaching conference in Chicago, quite outstripped other divisions, which were subject to profit-taking and to speculative uncertainties as to earnings, past, present and future. Nevertheless, the share market exhibited a firm tone and final quotations on pivotal industrials and utilities generally closed with moderate gains. The turnover was 1,801,266 shares.

The United States Steel Corporation's unfilled tonnage statement was doubtless a market influence in the early dealings, which brought numerous declines of 1 to 2 points.

Rails Begin Advance.

The rails began their advance around the end of the first half hour and sellers elsewhere withheld their offerings, giving the entire list a lift. Extreme advances for the rails ranged from 1 to 7 points, and others about 1 to 2, although all wers shaded by the late equalizing.

Union Pacific, after rising 7, reduced its gain to 3¾, which was also Santa Fe's net improvement. Atlantic Coast Line was up 5½, Southern Pacific, 2⅞; New York Central, 1⅞, and a large number of others a point or more. United States Steel dropped 2⅝ in the initial selling, more than recovered and then closed ⅝ off. American Telephone's advance of 2⅝ was cut to ¾, although it had been 1¾ lower.

In addition to the market's expectations concerning outcome of the wage meeting, the vigor with which Congress directed its attention to the reconstruction finance corporation bill compelled attention. When the measure passes, Wall street believes the relief which it will provide can become effective shortly. It can become effective shortly. Its psychological value is expected in banking quarters to be exceedingly important.

Auto Show Results Matched.

Thus the week gives promise of supporting hopes with accomplishments which would help take the edge off the current evidence of depression in industry. Steel operations apparently have fully recovered from the holiday slump. Some reports note a little better inquiry here and there, although manufacturers are said to feel that much improvement may be delayed until March. Automobile makers are apt to mark time until they learn how well the new models are received. However, an adjustment of railroad wages, it is pointed out, might accelerate demand from the carrier companies.

Firm cables, a smaller visible supply and less pressure from Argentine shippers brought advances of ½ to ⅞ of a cent in wheat. Corn's gains were ¼ to ½, cotton's 5, 59, 30 cents a bale.

A sag in German marks was attributed to the imminence of month-month payments on foreign bank deposits. Sterling and the Canadian dollar were off, but French and Dutch exchanges firmed.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Rallying briskly, shoulder to shoulder with the stock market, grains, more than wiped out early losses today, and finished at an all-round advance.

Giving impetus to late bulges in grain values was 1,183,000 bushels decrease in the United States wheat visible supply, contrasting with an increase of 1,774,000 bushels at this time last year. Besides domestic primary receipts of wheat were extremely small, hardly half the total a year ago.

Wheat closed firm at almost the top point reached, 2⅝@1¼ above Saturday's finish. corn 1¼@1½ up, oats a shade to ¾ advanced, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5 cents.

Bulges in grain values took place despite the fact that North American wheat export business today amounted to only 300,000 bushels. On the other hand, Liverpool wheat quotations were relatively firm, and though the amount of wheat on ocean, 31,352,000 bushels, against 29,816,000 a week ago and 25,168,000 a year ago, this time last year, had a bearish effect.

Another transient incentive to sellers of wheat was an official report that German sowings had increased here winter wheat 1 per cent and winter barley 1.5 per cent. Other European continental countries also reported to have enlarged their winter wheat acreage. Furthermore, Argentina was asserted to be offering wheat abroad at a material discount as compared with wheat from North American. Sharp recoveries in Wall street securities, however, proved to be more than a counterbalance, helping grains in the last half of the day.

Corn, oats and rye followed the leadership of wheat. Unrelated Rural offerings of corn were measured.

Provisions took their cue from grains, although lard at one time sold below $5 a hundredweight, a new low since 1899.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 56½@56¾; July, 57@57⅝. Corn—May, 40@40¼; September, 58¾, offers. July, 41⅜; 42¼.

BONDS RECORD GAINS DESPITE EARLY LOSS

Federal Issues Still Decline; Rails Continue Leading Upward Trend.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The bond market resumed its upward trend today, with the exception of United States Government loans, and the railway issues continued to occupy the trading spotlight.

After sagging in the early part of the session, in what some traders characterized as a "healthy reaction," transportation mortgages began to raise their prices and from them on until the close of the market substantial gains were recorded.

There was some meager bidding for prime industrial loans and the utilities, but there was no excitement in these categories. The average for the industrials was fractionally higher, but the average for utility loans closed at the same figures as Saturday. The day's sales totaled $14,992,000.

While some of the rail bonds registered minor losses, the majority advanced fractions to 7 points. The low-priced and convertible issues were particularly favored. There were several points added to some bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Chicago & Alton Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, Chicago & Northwestern, Rock Island, Chicago & Western Indiana, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Chesapeake Corporation, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, New Haven, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading, Southern Pacific, Southern Railway, Union Pacific and Wabash.

The foreign list was mixed. Heaviest trading was recorded in British 5½ and German Government 5½s. The latter closed a shade lower as did the British loan. Argentine Government and Buenos Aires municipal obligations were up from 1 to 5½ poinst. Japanese Government issues were soft, but some of the corporate liens advanced.

BABE RUTH AND THAT WAGE CUT.

("When Babe Ruth's contract comes up this spring it is likely that the depression, downward trend in wages and completely changed economic situation may be argued against a renewal at the $80,000 a year rate."—News item.)

COLONEL RUPPERT—Now, Babe, about your salary * * *

Babe—What about it, boss?

Colonel—You realize that there is a new economic situation.

Babe—A new what?

Colonel—Economic situation.

Babe—Don't pull any of that Einstein stuff on me, colonel; let's talk plain English.

Colonel—Well, the fact is, Babe, that nothing is worth today what it was worth a few years ago.

Babe—Not even home runs, boss?

Colonel—Not even those.

Babe—Would you say that with the bases full, the score tied and two out, boss?

* * * *

COLONEL—I am speaking generally. The whole world has been suffering from over-expansion. Everybody is suffering this very minute from inflation.

Babe—Well, the thing to do is avoid crowds and breathe through our noses. I had an uncle who had inflation and * * *

Colonel—You don't seem to understand. I refer to the inflation in the world of trade. We have been living in an era of false values. Wages have been too high all along the line. We have got to get down to new standards. We have got to deflate wages. An economic adjustment is * * * Babe—I think I'd get your drift quicker, colonel, if you used plainer words. Are you hinting sumpin' about cutting my salary?

Colonel—That's about it, Babe.

Babe—Then never mind about this economic adjustment and deflation stuff, just say you want me to work for less dough.

Colonel—Very well, I want you to work for less dough, Babe.

* * * *

BABE—I can't see it, boss. And don't quote me no long statements about the last fiscal year, the decline in car loadings or the tariff walls.

Colonel—The point I want you to get, Babe, is that the dollar is worth more now than it has been in years. You know that, don't you?

Babe—You know it and I know it, but those income tax collectors don't know it.

* * * *

COLONEL—A dollar will buy almost twice what it would when your old contract was signed. Rents are cheaper, food is cheaper, clothing is cheaper.

Babe—But traffic court fines are just as big as ever, colonel.

Colonel—It's no use trying to reason with you, Babe. It comes down to this: Will you accept less money or not under a new contract?

Babe—Lissen, boss, food may be cheaper, rents may be cheaper and clothes may be cheaper, but up there in the pinches next summer home runs will be worth just as much to you as they ever were.

Colonel—But * * *

Babe—And when you get into those crooscial series with the Athletics and the score is tied in the ninth, you won't care how cheap food is or how cheap clothes are or whether rents are lower. * * *

Colonel—But * * *.

Babe—All you'll care about is the old socko at any price and * * *.

Colonel (despairingly)—Oh, well, I guess you're right. What did you say you wanted this year?

TERRY SCORNS 40 PER CENT SALARY CUT BY GIANTS

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

AROUND THE CIRCUIT.

THE old reliable grapevine telegraph last season carried into the camp of every American League club the gratifying information that Joey Kuhel, otherwise a fine hitter, is a sucker for a low ball, and Kuhel saw enough low pitches during the latter half of the year to convince him that there was skullduggery afoot.

As a result, Kuhel's stance at the plate will come in for considerable treatment by coaches at the Nats' Biloxi camp. Kuhel's stand-up, straight-laced stance handicaps his swing against low balls.

Bill Terry is the latest to join the holdout brigade in the big leagues, as he declines with thanks to accept a 40 per cent cut in the $22,000 salary he drew from the Giants last year—or, to be exact, a reduction of $8,800.

The magnates apparently meant serious business when they voted for a revision downward all along the line of player salaries when they met at Chicago last month. The ball players have two choices—to sign at the magnates' terms or try their hand at some other profession.

Brooklyn is expected to show more speed on the bases with the advent of Manager Max Carey, the leading base thief of the National League in his playing days, but Carey warns Brooklyn fans not to expect too much, inasmuch as it is still impossible to steal first base. Brooklyn's chief trouble in the past, however, was the direction of traffic once Uncle Robbie's playboys managed to get on the base paths.

Georgetown will be represented in the big leagues next year by Packy White, southpaw pitcher, who has returned his 1932 contract to the Giants duly signed. It was not known generally that White was with the Giants throughout the last three months of the 1931 campaign, absorbing a deal of baseball knowledge, although failing to break into the line-up. White graduated from Georgetown in 1931.

Another former Georgetown player is Clyde Sukeforth, first string catcher for the Cincinnati Reds, whose baseball career was jeopardized last fall when he lost an eye in a hunting accident. Sukeforth, who performed at the Hilltop in 1922 and 1923, will make a brave effort to hold his regular berth with the Reds despite his misfortune.

Paul Gregory, rookie pitcher coming up with the White Sox, has a claim to fame. Pitching for Atlanta last season, he went into the game with two out in the ninth and the bases filled and the winning run on third. He pitched one ball and the batter singled to left but Gregory was credited with winning the game. The runner, who had been on first, failed to advance to second on the hit but ran instead to the clubhouse in a new version of the "Merkle" boner. The Atlanta shortstop recovered the ball and touched second to retire the side and nullify the run.

Pepper Martin is the new fan mail champion of the St. Louis Cardinals. Martin's world series exploits are netting him such a pack of correspondence that his mail has surpassed that of Jim Bottomley, formerly the chief idol of the Cardinal fans.

With McNair and Boley as utility men, the Athletics are probably the best fortified team in the league in infield reserves. But in case of injury, Connie Mack has no one to replace either Simmons or Grove. There are no substitute for ball players of their type.

Washington will be in sore straights if either Cronin or Bluege is forced out of the game, although Johnny Kerr may be installed in the shortstop position. But there is none on the squad who can substitute for Bluege with the possible exception of Buddy Myer, who probably would be moved over to the corner sack in any emergency.

Beaumont, Tex., has sent up a player of the Pepper Martin type to the Detroit Tigers, it seems. Outfielder Joyner White led the Texas circuit in stolen bases with 52 and in triples with 23, most of the latter gained by stretching legitimate two-base hits. White's .298 batting average is not discouraging inasmuch as the Texas circuit appears to be a "pitchers' league," with only eleven players hitting more than .300 last year.

Levinsky to Fight Paulino on Friday

Meets Basque at Chicago; Loughran Faces Hamas on Same Night.

New York, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—King Levinsky and Tommy Loughran, principals in one of the big upsets of the indoor boxing season, will fight again this week—but not each other.

Levinsky, whose heavyweight stock rose several points when he handed Loughran a terrific beating in a ten-round bout here a few weeks ago, will come this week to face the rugged Spaniard, Paulino Uzcudun, in the ten-round feature of the Chicago Stadium's Friday night card.

On the same night in Madison Square Garden here, Loughran, hoping to get started again, boxes the dangerous youngster, Steve Hamas, also over the ten round route.

At Boston Friday night, Ernie Schaaf and Jack Dorval, rival Boston heavyweights, are to box twelve rounds for the New England title.

Billy Landers Unawed by Wolgast

By JACK ESPEY.

PUGILISTIC royalty will parade before Capital and Alexandria fans tonight when Midget Wolgast, king of the flyweights, meets the ambitious and aggressive Billy Landers, of Norfolk, in Portner's Arena. The bout, scheduled for eight rounds, features the Day Nursery weekly benefit program, and a crowd taxing the capacity of the recently enlarged arena is anticipated.

It has been ten years since a boxing champion showed his wares before a local audience, the last being Harry Greb, then holder of the middleweight title. Wolgast, though rated third by the National Boxing Association, is recognized officially as world's flyweight champion by the New York and Pennsylvania commissions, and has a stronger claim to the title than any other 112-pounder on the basis of competition.

Wolgast Favored To Win.

On past performances Wolgast is favored to win by huge odds, but whether he can dispose of Landers as easily as the dope indicates is a question that has been interesting local experts for days. In this vicinity Landers is known as a hard-hitting, determined scrapper who loves to wade in and sock, and it is more than probable that he will furnish the champion a lively session, at least for four or five rounds.

The champion enjoys the reputation of being one of the greatest left-hand punchers at his weight in the history of the roped arena.

Young Landers, regarding the bout as the chance of a life-time, is out to knock Wolgast to the floor as quick as possible. He is not in the least degree awed by the fact that he is opposing a champion. While taking his final workout yesterday afternoon in Frankie Mann's Gymnasium, Landers quietly discussed his outlook.

Landers Talks of K. O. Victory.

"This is a great chance for me and I'm gonna make the best of it," asserted Billy as he dressed after a session with the ropes and bag. "I think I can win and do it by a knockout, too.

"Wolgast's left hand doesn't worry me. I've heard plenty about it, but I'm gonna disregard it and try to smash inside of his defense. I've been working on my own left hand for the past two weeks and am perfectly willing to match mine with his if he doesn't try to run.

"These champions, you know, sometimes try to make monkeys out of us fellows who don't rank very high in the game, and they can do it by jabbing and running—getting on the old bicycle. Well, if Wolgast wants to stand up and fight, it will be the easiest way I can win. If he runs, then I guess I'll just have to chase after him and that might take more time than I like.

"Ever since I started boxing three years ago, I've tried to follow Jack Dempsey's plan; by that, I mean to throw everything into the fight at the beginning, trying for an early knockout. Of course, I want to win by any fair method, but I'd much rather get the other fellow early and put him down for the count.

Landers Record Good in Own Class.

Landers' record does not begin to claim rank with that of Wolgast, for the blond Norfolk kid has not been fighting in the same high-class competition as the title holder. However, with the boys he has met, Billy has lost only four bouts in about 40 and two-thirds of his victories have been scored on knockouts.

Tonight's preliminaries promise plenty of excitement for the early comers. The semifinal of eight rounds brings together two fast lightweights, Bobby Burns, of Baltimore, and Tommy Bashara, of Norfolk. Bashara looked good in a workout yesterday in Mann's Gym. In other bouts, all of four rounds' duration, Jesse Belt meets Bingo Brodie, Marino Marini tangles with Louie Guglimini, Billy Reed faces Soldier Shasburger and Patsy Lewis opposes Billy Eschinger.

The curtain goes up at 8:30 o'clock.

Ossie Bluege Signs For Tenth Season

Third Baseman Subjected to Salary Cut for 1932, Is Belief.

Third Baseman Ossie Bluege, who is one of several Nationals to make his home here, yesterday stepped into the offices of President Clark Griffith and signed a contract for 1932, Outfielder Dave Harris and Manager Walter Johnson being the only other Nats in the fold to date. This gives the Washington Club title to Ossie's services for the tenth season, as he came here from the Three-Eye League in 1922.

President Griffith declined to give any details as to whether or not Bluege was forced to take a salary cut.

It is believed, however, that Bluege felt the pruning knife, for he has been drawing a high salary for some time and his record last season was not especially good, although he did manage to rank thirteenth in the league in driving in runs, being credited with 98. His batting average was but .272, while he fielded at a .960 clip. This was high enough to give him leadership among the regular third sacker, but the competition was not as keen as usual and he has fielded much better in several previous seasons.

FIRST SERIES TEST FOR EASTERN

Unbeaten Five Plays Business Today; Tech vs. Central.

FORCED to share its high school basket ball series crown last year with Central, Eastern High's current squad of court players will start competition in the high school series today with their "past performance" sheet showing thirteen straight victories to their credit since the opening of the season.

Representing Eastern in the opening line-up today against Business High, conquerers of the favored Tech team Friday, will be Barney Kane and "Bones" Courtney, forwards; Bernie Lieb, center, and Ben Zola and Al Waters, guards. Kane, Lieb, Zola and Waters were regular units in last year's team.

Business to Have Best Team Ready.

Confident that its victory over Tech was deservingly won, Business will be manned today by the same combination which saw action Friday, Esentad and Tipton, forwards; Sherman, center; Cavanaugh and Shore, guards. A smooth, fast little team, it displayed a willingness to mix with bigger foes in its first series test, and, too, a gift of sinking daring shots in crises.

But Eastern rules a handy favorite today. It's man for man defense will cut down largely on style of passing, which Business finds is exasperating to owners of the zone defense system. In Lieb, Waters and Courtney it will show three of the best shots in high school ranks.

Not outweighed in importance by the initial performance of Eastern is the Tech-Central game, which opens activities at Tech High gym this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Bringing together ancient foes, the game has the added allure of a first-rate contest, for the teams seem evenly matched. Tech's slightly superior attack is equalized by Central's more conclusive guarding.

Burke Central's Chief Scoring Hope.

Central's chief scoring hope will be Capt. Bill Burke, while Tech once more will place its scoring hopes in the able fingers of Everett Russell and Waverly Wheeler. Bernie Reichardt, a regular forward last year, probably will play at guard today, substituting for Daly, who replaced Capt. Artie Willison when the latter was injured New Year's Day.

Western, idle today in the series, tackles a rapidly improving team in the Maryland Freshmen, at Maryland.

Georgetown Awards 20 Football Letters

Twenty members of the Georgetown University Football squad yesterday were awarded letters by the University athletic board of control in recognition of their services during the season of 1931. Eight are seniors, and are slated to graduate from the Hilltop in June.

The senior letter winners are Maurice Dubofsky, captain; Richard King, Leroy Bordeau, Charles McManus, Aurel Tremblay, Edward Katalinas, George Dyer and Gunnar Anderson. The others are Joseph Alenty, Bernard Donoghue, Richard Danner, Fred Callahan, Samuel Richards, John Shimmins, Joseph Katalinas, Nicholas Viskovitch, Ray Hudson, Thomas Carolan, Michael Lione and Martin Connors, manager.

Carnera Stunt Injures Back of V. M. I. Center

Lexington, Va., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—It might be classed as a technical foul on Primo Carnera.

St Mergenhagen, V. M. I.'s 6-foot-5 basket ball center, tried to emulate the vast Venetian's motion picture stunt of lifting a small automobile from the ground. A badly strained back was the result.

Now Trainer Patchin says SI won't play any more basket ball for a while. Coach Bill Raftery says he won't imitate any more movie stunts either.

AGUA CALIENTE, Lower Calif., Mexico, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Weights for thoroughbreds nominated for the $50,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, to be run here March 20, were announced at the Jockey Club today.

Phar Lap, the great Australian horse due to arrive in San Francisco January 15 en route here, was assigned the highest impost, 129 pounds. Plucky Play, who placed third last year and won the Riggs Handicap later, and Dr. Freeland, from the Bennie Creech Stable, each were assigned the second heaviest weight, 120 pounds.

James A. Best's Reveille Boy must carry third weight, 118 pounds. Spanish Play was assigned 117, and Marine, Canadian champion, 114.

G. W. BEATS MARINES, 59 TO 31

Burgess, Carrick and Locke High-Scorers of Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

QUANTICO, Va., Jan. 11.—George Washington University basketers, led by Burgess, Parrack and Zahn, had little trouble tonight in disposing of the Quantico Marine five, 59 to 31. The Colonials led from start to finish and held a 30-19 margin at the intermission.

The Colonials displayed some clever passing and fine teamwork and hardly were extended in ringing up victory. Locke, ace of the Devil Dogs, scored 15 points in the first half, after which he was so closely guarded that he was held scoreless. Oddly enough, Zahn went scoreless in the first half, but cut loose with 11 points in the second.

Burgess Enjoys Field Day.

Burgess enjoyed a field day at the Marines' expense. He came through with 19 points, several of which were on pretty tosses which showed that his scoring eye is as good as it ever was. He registered eight times from the floor and sank three charity shots. Parrack pressed Burgess for honors, getting six floor goals and four from the freedom line.

Locke was the only Leatherneck who could score consistently and, as already mentioned, he was checked for the entire second period. Bauer, with four points, Gann, Boyer and Veher with three each, and Posik, with one, accounted for the remainder of the Marine total.

Horse Racing, Boxing Bill To Be Given Virginia House

Richmond, Va., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Edgar B. English, Richmond member of the House of Delegates, said today he is planning to introduce a bill in the General Assembly permitting profesional boxing matches, horse racing and Sunday baseball in any city or community of Virginia where a majority of the voters express their approval.

The proposed local option boxing bill amends sections 4426 and 4427 of the Virginia code so as to permit boxing where an admission fee is charged in any city, or community, when not less than 100 qualified voters shall petition the circuit or corporation court to have the matter submitted to the voters and a majority of the voters approve such matches.

The petition must be presented, it is provided, at least 90 days before a general election, upon which the court will require the electoral board to provide the necessary ballots for the voters at the general election.

The bill sets a limit of fifteen rounds and provides for gloves weighing not less than five ounces, and for physical examination of the contestants by a practicing physician just prior to the match.

Boxing has continued at Roanoke, Norfolk and Alexandria under what is known as the "club plan," under which fans pay a membership fee entitling them to see the bouts.

Smith Takes Coast Golf Prize

Amateur Trophy Won by Roland Mackenzie, of District.

By GEORGE H. BEALE.

HILLCREST COUNTRY CLUB, Los Angeles, Jan. 11 (U.P.).—MacDonald Smith, New York professional, turned back a field of the country's most brilliant golfers today to win the Los Angeles open tournament for the third time. Smith took a lead in the first round of the $7,500 event and never lost it, finishing the last 18 holes of the 36-hole grind today with a 72 for a total of 281.

This gave him a four stroke advantage over a flock of good professionals who followed him closely to the finish but never could catch up. Smith won $2,000 as first prize money.

Tied for second place, with 285's were Joe Kirkwood, Chicago trick shot specialist, Leo Diegel, of Agua Caliente, Dick Metz, of San Angelo, Tex., and Olin Dutra, of Santa Monica.

Diegel, Kirkwood, Dutra Blow Chances.

Going into the last nine, Diegel Dutra and Kirkwood all had a theoretical chance to overtake Smith, but they couldn't make it.

Right behind these men at 286 were bunched four more nationally known players, Abe Espinosa, of Chicago; Gene Sarazen, of New Port Richie, Fla.; Clarence Clark, of Belleville, N. Y., and Ralph Guldahl, of Detroit. Other favorites were scattered far and near.

Walter Hagen, always a favorite here, took a 71 on the final eighteen for a total of 288. Wiffy Cox, Brooklyn, winner of the recent San Francisco open, had 294. Harry Cooper, winner of the 1932 Pasadena open, totaled 296.

Ed Dudley, defending champion, finished in the same bracket with Cooper. Dudley never did get his clubs working just right and he finished off with a 76 that put him way out of the money. George Von Elm finished with a 297.

Roland Mackenzie Leads Amateur Field.

Best of all the amateurs was Roland MacKenzie, of Washington, D. C., although Charles Seaver, Los Angeles, fell down badly to give him the honors. Seaver led the amateurs until the last round, when he took an 81 for a 299. Mackenzie got in in 291.

Smith's superiority over the remainder of the field was illustrated best by the fact he was the only person able to get under par figures consistently.

To do this he shot successive rounds of 69, 68, 72, and 72. Par for the course is 71.

The money-winners:

Macdonald Smith, New York, 69, 68, 72, 72—281—$2,000.

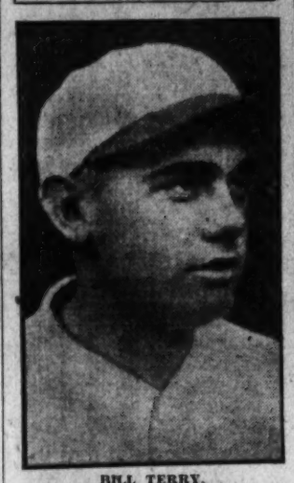
Salem Five Cancels Tonight's A. U. Game

American University's basket ball game scheduled tonight with Salem, W. Va., College has been canceled owing to the inability of the West Virginians to complete arrangements for a trip to this section. As a result, Washington court fans will be without entertainment of the collegiate variety until Thursday night when American engages St. John's, of Annapolis, and Catholic meets St. Joseph's, of Philadelphia.

Having already won five straight games, American seems well on the way to a highly successful season.

Holdout



BILL TERRY.

LOYOLA WINS, 28-27, OVER MARYLAND

Long Shots Near End by Carlin, Nooney Clinch Game.

IN as dramatic a finish as basket ball fans have witnessed hereabouts in years, Loyola College of Baltimore nosed out Maryland's Southern Conference champions, 28 to 27, last night before 1,800 thrill-soaked spectators in Ritchie Gymnasium. Two long, highly arched shots that swished perfectly through the netting gave the Baltimoreans a sweet victory over their State rivals, who thus terminated intercollegiate competition in the old gymnasium, which shortly is to be supplanted by the new Ritchie Field House.

Little "Oz" (yes, the wizard) Nooney and Vince Carlin produced the marathon heaves that spelled defeat for Maryland in its first home game of the season. Nooney, a substitute, placed Loyola in the lead, 26 to 25, four minutes before the close with a toss half the length of the court from the sideline, while Carlin, following two fouls by Chase that gave Maryland the advantage temporarily, came through in the last minute with a shot almost duplicating Nooney's.

Game Thriller From Start.

The action was fast and furious from the outset and the teams were never more than five points separated. Maryland took the lead on a free toss by Bozie Berger, all-American guard, in the first three minutes, and Loyola spurted ahead shortly thereafter to dominate the situation until within two minutes of the intermission, when Spencer Chase, Ed Ronkin and Jack Norris staged a rally to send Maryland into the rest period on the better side of a 13-12 count.

Mainly through the work of Chase, a whirlwind of skinny arms and legs, who came into the fray as a substitute, the Old Liners managed to remain in front in the second half until Nooney inserted his marathon heave. Chase again caused Maryland hopes to rise by coolly sinking a pair of charity throws, only to see Carlin follow up Nooney's goal with one almost as sensational and more vital.

Maryland started the same team that won the Southern Conference title last year, but Coach Shipley did not hesitate in pouring in reinforcements when Loyola's strength became apparent.

Sharkey Sees Max In Dull Exhibition

10,000 at Boston Witness Rivals for Title in Cordial Meeting.

Boston, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—With Jack Sharkey looking on, Max Schmeling tonight put on a tame exhibition against the three sparring partners in his road company. The Boston heavyweight, like most of the other 10,000 spectators, did not appear to be enthusiastic over the champion's performance.

Before Schmeling got down to business, Sharkey climbed inside the ring and gave him a cordial greeting.

"How are you Max?" Sharkey asked.

"Fine," replied Schmeling, "how are you and your family?"

"You drew a wonderful house tonight," Sharkey said.

"Yes," replied Max, "but you and I will draw a bigger one when we meet."

"If you think so, why don't you snap out of it and sign up with me," Sharkey retorted as he left the ring to return to his front row seat. Max turned away without answering.

The champion took several solid body punches from George Ponka, of Pittsburgh, but was able to toy with George Larocco and Pedro Lopez, of New York, his heavier-footed sparring mates.

Slugger May Be Outlawed By Club

Stoneham Says First Baseman Must Sign Or Quit Baseball.

Contract Is Returned Unsigned; Was Paid $22,000 in 1931.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The New York Giants displayed the mailed fist today in dealing with Memphis Bill Terry, star first baseman and first of the club's players to become a holdout for 1932.

Terry, saying he was "thoroughly disgusted" with a proffered contract that called for a 40 per cent reduction from last year, shipped the document back with the request that he be traded or sold. Within four hours President Charles A. Stoneham, of the Giants, notified the slugger from Memphis to sign at what the Giants considered fair terms or remain out of organized baseball.

Magnates Serious Regarding Salary Cuts.

Coming on top of the announcement that the St. Louis Cardinals chopped Hack Wilson's stipend from $33,000 to a mere $7,500 and had exhibited an alarming indifference whether he signed, today's sharp exchange was fraught with significance.

Evidently major league moguls meant what they said out at Chicago last month. The returns already indicate salaries are being slashed right and left. Also they indicate the club owners are not in a mood for argument.

"It will be necessary for Terry to sign with the New York Club on fair terms or what the Giants believe to be fair terms," President Stoneham declared. "He will not be traded or sold."

Although the exact figure was not public, Terry was believed to have received $22,000 for his services last year, when he finished in a virtual tie with Jim Bottomley and Chick Hafey, of the Cardinals, for the National League batting crown. A reduction of 40 per cent would put his 1932 contract at about $13,000.

"Thoroughly Disgusted," Says Terry.

In returning the contract to President Stoneham, Terry sent an accompanying wire to local sports writers in which he said:

"Mr. Stoneham asked me last fall not to give the newspapers any information regarding my contract this spring, as the club would take care of me. As I do not agree with them that approximately 40 per cent cut is taking care of me, I am giving you this information along with the information that I am thoroughly disgusted."

Stoneham's statement offered this rebuttal:

"Terry has been treated better by the New York Club as to salary than any other player who ever wore a Giants' uniform. He has made trouble about signing every year since he was a rookie. He received in 1931 within $1,500 of what Bottomley and Hafey together received, notwithstanding the fact that all three finished in a tie for the batting championship of the National League. He received thousands more than other great National League players.

"Because of holding out every spring, Terry has been a detriment to the club. We tried to trade him last year, and no one wanted him on account of the high salary he was demanding last winter. Now he will not be traded or sold."

Two Government League leaders, Fort Myer and Census Enumerators, increased their margins in games staged yesterday on Bolling Field's hangar floor. The Doughboys trimmed Naval Hospital in an all-service encounter, 30 to 25, while in the nightcap the Census lads narrowly escaped taking a licking when they won by 31-28, from Government Printing Office.

DICK MORRIS WINS FIFTH STRAIGHT AT JEFFERSON PARK

Colt Is Victor By 2-Length Margin

Elizabeth Bolla Second, With Wise Seller Third.

Chatover Beats Good Field of Sprinters at Tropical Park.

JEFFERSON PARK, New Orleans, Jan. 11 (A.P.).—Dick Morris, a 4-year-old from the stable of Knebelkamp & Morris, won his fifth consecutive race today when he outclassed a field of sprinters in the six-furlong feature at Jefferson Park.

The consistent son of Midway-Mammon moved into the lead at the half-mile post and as the field of eight flashed past the judges' stand was two lengths in front of Elizabeth Bolla, the speedy 5-year-old mare from the Colgate Stable. B. S. Michell's Wise Seller was third.

The victory was the first time since Dick Morris started his winning streak at the Idle Hour Charity meet in November that he paid more than even money. A $2 straight ticket today returned $4.40.

Jockey J. Neel was aboard both members of the winning daily double combination—Dorothy Hicks and Play Bird. Holders of $2 tickets on the combination received $242.20.

Chatover Wins Sprint at Tropical Park.

Tropical Park Race Track, Coral Gables, Fla., Jan. 11 (A.P.).—The last lap of the current meeting began here today and many new arrivals from out of town augmented the large attendance, delightful weather helping to swell the figures. A featureless card was offered, but the sport was keen. An exciting finish came about with the running of the fourth race, a 6-furlong dash for veteran sprinters, and favorite players enjoyed their third success in four events when Chatover, from the newly arrived O. F. Woodward stable, was ridden out to a length-victory over Tantalizing. Hazel Gumberts lost the place by a head, while Patrick Callahan was another head back in fourth place.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—JORGHENSEN, $12.80, $6.60, $3.80; INTRUDER, $16.40, $8.00; DUSKY BOY, $4.00.

JORHGHENSEN, much the best and under strong restraint until reaching the final five-sixteenths, wore down the leader without need of punishment and, continuing strong after getting to the front, won with something left. INTRUDER, under a hustling ride, had speed, worked way into a long lead and held on fairly well, but was no match for the winner. DUSKY BOY, inclined to bear in throughout, closed resolutely under strong ride and, wearing down GLEN LAD, outstayed BLOW FLY. The latter, fractious at the post, broke slowly and improved position steadily, but was unable to get up. GLEN LAD quit. LOYAL LOUIE raced evenly. SCANDAL SHEET, under brisk urging after a quarter, weakened after moving up weakly at the stretch turn.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:30. Off at 2:33. Winner, Mrs. D. Hick's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOROTHY HICKS, $40.60, $11.20, $6.20; PIECEMEAL, $3.40, $2.80; MISS UPSET, $3.80.

DOROTHY HICKS, rank at the post, but away fast, was under light restraint until reaching the stretch, where she responded well to mild pressure and, disposing of ESTABROOK, won thereafter. PIECEMEAL began fast, but was unable to keep up, moved up steadily in the stretch and headed MISS UPSET in the final strides. The latter bettered her position with a rush in the stretch, swerved to the inside near the end and just failed to outstay PIECEMEAL. ELKHART, strongly indulged from the start, weakened in the final drive. ESTABROOK weakened badly after showing speed to the stretch. DEAR NANETTE raced wide, dropped out of it in the stretch. FRED AUERBACH broke in a tangle and was always far back.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:02. Off at 3:06. Winner, Lone Star Stable's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PLAY BIRD, $5.40, $3.80, $2.80; SHACKELFORD, $10.80, $5.40; VOLT METER, $3.60.

PLAY BIRD, in close quarters early, made up much ground under energetic riding in the back stretch, was taken under slight restraint at the second turn and, standing the drive gamely, got up in closing strides. SHACKELFORD broke slowly, but soon reached the lead, had good speed and, holding on stubbornly, just failed to last. VOLT METER, a strong factor throughout, weakened in the drive. BELEN began fast, met interference when dropping out of it at the first turn and came through on inside when working her way up. ENTRAP had no mishap and quit. PROMETHEUS bolted at the first turn, had early speed and was eased up after five-eighths.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $700; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start bad from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:31½. Off at 3:36½. Winner, Knebelkamp & Morris' ch. g. GETTIN EVEN, suited by the going and well ridden, was reserved off the pace until reaching the final sixteenth, where he raced to the front without need of pressure and, holding on well under repeated punishment, stalled off CHENE. Latter, allowed to drop out of it, lost much ground on the stretch turn and went determinedly in the drive. LIGHT MINT had sped from the start, weakened slightly in the drive, but outstayed MINE SWEEPER. The latter saved ground and also faltered in the closing stages. GAILLARDIA, hustled to the lead, labored in the going and was through after a half mile.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse $600; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward, fillies and mares. Start good for all but Joan G. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:58. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DICK MORRIS, $4.40, $3.00, $2.40; ELIZABETH BOLLA, $4.60, $2.60; WISE SELLER, $2.20.

DICK MORRIS, rank at the post, where he was placed outside the stalls, had slight advantage in the start, raced into decisive command with a rush at the turn and, continuing strongly, won thereafter. ELIZABETH BOLLA, dropped out of it shortly after the start, lost ground for a half mile and, while racing on inside thereafter, came away from the others, but failed to threaten winner. WISE SELLER began fast, had speed and weakened, but outstayed KING CHEROKEE. The latter quit in the stretch run. NIM THE NYMPH was outrun.

CAMP DOUGLAS broke fast, was rated under steadying restraint until reaching the final quarter, where he responded strongly and, wearing down FLYING DON, came fast in the final stages. The latter began slowly, but rushed to the lead on inside before going an eighth, had keen speed for the going and tired, but the effort may benefit him. BERT JOHN, allowed dig drop out of it, was going boldly in the final stages. CLOIDO raced well. COLONIAL BELLE, under strong restraint early, was not punished. SPRINGSTEEL was outrun.

TRACK TITLE LIKELY FOR CENTRAL

Dope Indicates Eastern Is Due to Lose School Crown.

THAT the high school track championship is going to pack up its kit at Eastern in the near future and move over to a steam-heated apartment at Central is the belief of not only the general followers of high school sports in the city, but Coach Mike Kelley, of Eastern.

Kelley gave Eastern unprecendented laurels in track, and asserts that the school's team will be "in there fighting" this season, but there is no disguising the fact that the Lincoln Park school is passing out of a golden era, while waiting for a squad of 75 freshmen and sophomores to grow into track stars.

Central Prospects Bright.

Central, to all appearances, has the greatest chance to win honors hereabouts this year. The bulk of the young 1931 squad of track and fieldmen, who finished a strong second to Eastern in the interhigh meet, is back in their scanties and bigger and better than last year. Eastern has lost two of its three greatest and, for that matter, only point winners—Grover Everett and Fred Hutchinson The third portion of the trio, Bob Slye, remains.

Central once more will have St. John, outstanding miler in the high schools, and its quartet of speed merchants, Naylor, Smith, Ditzler and Price, who ran away with the shorter races last year. Kocsis and Gibbins, wielders of the shot, javelin and discus, are the only other veterans.

Around Slye, a hurdler, Kelley will form a team which is expected to be made up largely of Mostow, distance runner; Rickert and Palmer, sprintmen, and Sprinkle, pole vault and high jump. Three weeks of inspecting the horde of new talent has failed to reveal any of that.

Tech and Western must be contented with also-ran positions this year. Tech has lost the basis of its relay team, Al Reichman and Paul Achsteter. Western's team is still in the experimental stage.

Five Records Credited Eastern.

During the Eastern three-year heyday its performers established five high school records—Frank Miles' mile mark of 4:40 1-5; the 1930 120-yard high hurdle mark of 0:16 1-5, made by Bob Slye, and the mark of 0:16 flat for the same distance made last year by Everett; Everett's broad jump distance of 21 feet 8¾ inches and Conrad Allison's 162-foot 4-inch javelin toss.

Three straight high school championships, two University of Virginia indoor meets, two victories over Episcopal and three over Maryland freshmen in dual meets, two Catholic University indoor meets, one Maryland interscholastic and a "C" Club meet loaded the trophy shelves at Eastern with a quantity of metal to shine.

AZTECS WANT GAMES.

The Aztec 145-pound basket ball team would like to book games with strong teams in its class. Teams interested should call Manager Jorey at Metropolitan 4570. The Company F team is especially challenged.

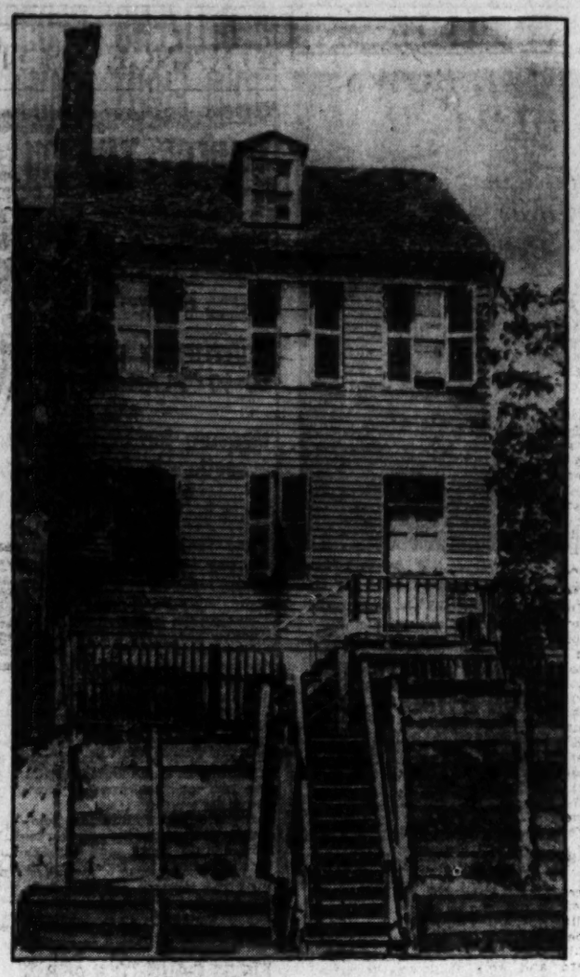
When Washington Was Younger—No. 161



THIS photograph depicts the Washington birthplace of Alexander R. Shepherd, said by tradition to be the most famous and noteworthy of Washington's governors. He is first noted by history as being a member of the Board of Aldermen which, under Mayor Wallach, first drafted a plan for improvement in the lighting and paving of the District's streets in 1864. In fact, it was through his energy and public spiritedness that the improvement bill of 1864 finally became a law.

In 1870 he again came to the front when he proposed to Congress the establishment of a Territorial form of government. He was also known as one of the foremost builders of the period, having erected many fashionable homes in the vicinity of Second and East Capitol streets.

After a fitting reward for his many civic services he was appointed Governor of the District by President Grant in 1873, in spite of bitter opposition. Though cursed by many and loved by few while in office, he has had greater influence upon the present city government than any of his predecessors.

Broken and dispirited, he spent the last 22 years of his life in Mexico, to be remembered only by a monument which was erected at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue after his death in 1902.

TRACKS IN TRIANGLE AREA IMPEDE WORK, MELLON POINTS OUT

Secretary Willing for U. S. to Pay Mt. Vernon Line Damages.

HOUSE SUBCOMMITTEE TO CONSIDER PROPOSAL

Early Settlement of Row Is Declared Essential to Building Program.

Tracks of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway are impeding the Government's triangle building program, and subjecting the Treasury Department to "serious embarrassment," Secretary Andrew W. Mellon wrote the House District committee yesterday.

"Work has proceeded to the point where presence of the tracks will immediately prove a serious cause of delay and additional expense," he wrote the committee chairman.

Action on a proposed resolution to revoke the company's franchise, and apportion damages between Federal and District Governments, was urged by the Treasury Secretary.

Excavation Reaches Tracks.

Steam shovels, excavating for foundations of the new Labor and Interstate Commerce Commission buildings, have reached the tracks on one side of Thirteen-and-a-half street, and pile drivers have advanced as far as they can go on the other, he wrote, adding:

"Each day from now on that the contractor is deprived of the area occupied by the tracks means that much embarrassment to the progress of his work."

The Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway Co. has resolutely continued operation below the Avenue since the courts turned down its petition to prevent the Government from moving its tracks. Its appeal for a stay is now pending in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, and there are no indications as to when the court will act.

Company Seeks Terminal.

In the interim the company has vainly sought to provide a loop and terminal above Pennsylvania avenue, with tracks running up Fourteenth street but the District Commissioners denied them this recourse.

Terminals have been proposed at Fourteenth street and Constitution avenue, at Fourteenth and Water streets and south of Highway Bridge.

"Such terminals the railway company feels would be so detrimental to its business as to be tantamount to abandonment," Secretary Mellon said.

The joint resolution recommended by the Treasury Department, introduced in the House by Representative Howard W. Smith (Democrat), Virginia, and in the Senate by Senator Claude A. Swanson (Democrat), Virginia, yesterday was referred to the public utilities subcommittee of the House District committee by Chairman Mary T. Norton. It will possibly be considered at a meeting of the committee tomorrow morning.

District's Contingent Attitude.

"If Congress in its wisdom should decide that the District government was without recourse in refusing rerouting of the railway into the congested section of the city, and that the Federal Government is responsible for conditions which necessitate abandonment of the line, this department has no objection to the amendment of the proposed resolution to eliminate the District of Columbia from responsibility of paying any of the amount of damages which may be awarded," the Treasury communication to Mrs. Norton stated.

Besides the Labor Department and Interstate Commerce Commission Buildings, work on the new Postoffice structure is also being delayed by the railway operations, it was said. An early settlement of the problem was declared "essential to the orderly and prompt prosecution of the public building program in the District."

THESE PUPILS BRING GREEK MYTH TO LIFE

These fourth grade pupils of the Bowen School under the direction of their teacher, Miss H. D. Stiles, appeared yesterday in a play, "The Horse and the Olive Tree," a Greek myth. The children, who are studying ancient Greece, made their own costumes.

2 MORE POLICEMEN FACE BEATING TRIAL

Bremmermann and Clark Accused of Assaulting 17-Year-Old Captive.

Policemen Charles R. Bremmermann and Hollis L. Clark, suspended patrolmen of the Second Precinct, went on trial yesterday before Justice F. D. Letts in the District Supreme Court on a charge of assaulting Thomas M. Williams, 17-year-old colored boy, who is now serving a six-month sentence for joyriding.

The entire court day was given over to picking the jurors and getting the case under way. Williams was the only witness and his testimony was far from complete when Attorney James A. O'Shea, acting for the policemen, asked Justice Letts to recess court for the day at 3 o'clock.

The Government's case was opened by John R. Fitzpatrick, assistant United States attorney, who outlined to the jury the charges. William H. Gallagher, another assistant United States attorney, took up the case when Williams came to the stand.

Under Gallagher's questioning, Williams related a story of how he and other colored boys were arrested by Bremmermann and Clark, taken to the station house and there severely beaten to extract from them a confession as to some housebreaking jobs. He said that under the stimulus of the beatings he confessed to things he had not done.

Williams said he was beaten at intervals for three days before he came to the conclusion he had better "say anything they wanted me to say" or else suffer dire consequences. His remarks often caused a ripple of merriment to pass through the court. Once he said in response to a weather question, "Well, I don't remember what the weather was, but I do know they were making it pretty hot for me."

Bill Seeks Civilian Board for Police

Blanton Offers Measure to Supplant Present Official Body.

Appointment of a police discipline board for the District, composed of three civilian members named by the President, was proposed yesterday in a House bill introduced by Representative Thomas L. Blanton (Democrat), Texas. The body would supplant the present police trial board, comprised of police officers.

On recommendation of the proposed board, the Commissioners would be empowered to fine, suspend or dismiss policemen for law violation, before or after conviction by a regular court. Special policemen and additional privates could be removed without cause and without trial.

Members of the discipline board would serve three-year terms and draw an annual salary of $2,000. They must have lived in the District 20 years, and have no connection with the District government. The board would have power to subpena records and persons. Witnesses would be paid regular fees and false testimony would be punishable as perjury.

Police Asked to Find Man; Family in Need

Police were asked yesterday to search for Henry Foley, 46 years old, who was formerly employed by the District Water Department and who has been missing since June 17, last, from his home at 1060 Jefferson street northwest.

The request for the search was made by his wife, Pearl Foley, who now lives at 1535 E street southeast. According to the police report, the Foleys have three children, who have been placed in orphanages since his disappearance, and Mrs. Foley is deaf, dumb and blind and in destitute circumstances.

Man With Car 'Racket' Victimizes Two Women

A new "racket" was discovered yesterday when Mrs. N. D. Wright, of 450 New Jersey avenue southeast, reported to police that a man stopped her while she was driving her automobile and told her a wheel was coming off her car and offered to fix it for 50 cents.

After taking the wheel off, the man, who claimed he was a mechanic for an automobile garage here, said there was nothing wrong and put it back on, and was paid the 50 cents.

Mrs. Wright became suspicious and called the garage where the man said he worked, and was told the man had victimized another woman $3 worth earlier in the morning on the same pretense.

New Virginia Bus Terminal to Open

Line Will Run to 619 Twelfth Street Over Different Route.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday ordered the Washington-Virginia-Maryland Coach Co. to change its route and terminal as soon as possible because its present terminal at Twelfth street and Pennsylvania avenue must be razed in connection with the Mall development. The change in route is expected to be effected by Thursday or Friday.

The buses entering Washington now will run east on K street to Eleventh instead of Thirteenth street, will then go south to Pennsylvania avenue, west to Twelfth street, thence to its new terminal at 619 Twelfth street, between F and G streets. Upon leaving the terminal the buses will run north on Twelfth street to K, thence west over K and M streets to Key Bridge.

New and modern equipment is being installed in the new terminal, according to Leon Arnold, president of the company.

Rotarians to Be Hosts To Other Service Clubs

The Rotary Club has invited the various service clubs throughout the city to attend its next meeting tomorrow in the grand ballroom of the Willard.

The clubs which will be represented are the Kiwanis, Monarch, Business, Civitan, Cosmopolitan, Exchange, Newcomers, Optimists, Round Table, Reciprocity, Quota, Soroptimists and the Zonta. A similar meeting was held last year but this is the first time the women's clubs have participated in a regular Rotary meeting.

Hermit's Cash Goal Of District Woman

Recluse Who Left $9,830 at Baltimore Believed to Be Her Brother.

Possibly heir to a $9,830 estate left by an elderly hermit in Baltimore, Mrs. Katherine Coleman, of 1403 Rhode Island avenue northwest, yesterday went to the Maryland city to make funeral arrangements for the man who is believed to be her brother.

The recluse, Frederick Schembach, led a secluded life in a basement. Mrs. Coleman read of his death in a Washington paper and was convinced he was her brother.

She got in touch with local police who advised her to communicate with Baltimore authorities. Police in Baltimore found a bank book showing a balance of nearly $10,000 and a registered letter from his sister in his effects.

BRIDE STARTS QUIZ ON BUILDING WAGES

Complaints of Pay Cuts on District School Work Will Be Sifted.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday began an investigation into charges that Charles S. Bannett Co., Inc., of Philadelphia, has failed to pay certain workmen the wages required by the scale established by the District Commissioners last fall. The complaint was filed by the Washington Building Trade Council on affidavits signed by the employes.

Charles Young, executive secretary of the council, said he had presented affidavits from carpenters, iron workers and hoisting engineers working on the Benjamin Stoddart School, that they are being paid as much as 40 or 50 per cent less than the wage scale established by the Commissioners.

Officials of the building concern deny the charges and have signed an affidavit to the effect that the pay rolls showing the requirement payments to carpenters are correct. The matter was first called to the attention of Maj. H. L. Robb, assistant engineer officer, but later turned over to the corporation counsel's office because of the conflicting statements.

The complaining workmen declare they were forced to sign the pay rolls in blank.

Maj. Robb said that work on the Benjamin Stoddart School is behind schedule and that the engineer department is considering calling on the bonding company to make compensations. This, however, has nothing to do with the complaints as to wages.

Similar complaints filed against the W. P. Rose Co., of Greensboro, N. C., several weeks ago resulted in a compromise settlement whereby the contractor agreed to pay the back wages and promised never to depart from the scale again on a District government project.

Illness Is Fatal To Mrs. Poyer

Navy Commander's Widow Succumbs in Chevy Chase After Short Illness.

Mrs. John Martin Poyer, widow of Commander Poyer, U. S. N. (retired), died yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Leslie A. Kniskern, 6410 Georgia street, Chevy Chase, Md., after a short illness.

Mrs. Poyer was the daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. George W. Porter, of Harrisburg, Pa., and lived there until her marriage in 1891. She was the granddaughter of Gov. David Rittenhouse Porter, of Pennsylvania, and great-granddaughter of Maj. Gen. Andrew Porter, a member of Gen. Washington's staff. The late Gen. Horace Porter, former Ambassador to France, was her uncle.

Mrs. Poyer had passed much of her life here, as Commander Poyer was stationed here at different times, and was on active duty at the Navy Department after his retirement until he became governor of American Samoa in 1915. Following his term there, Commander and Mrs. Poyer made their home in Washington until his death in 1922.

Three sisters, Mrs. W. W. Trout, of Spring Lake, N. J., Mrs. W. B. Hammond, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Mrs. T. Q. Hunter, of Boston, Mass.; a daughter, Mrs. Leslie A. Kniskern, wife of Lieut. Kniskern (C. C.), U. S. N., and one grandson, John Poyer Kniskern, survive.

House Names Women to Board.

Representative Mary T. Norton (Democrat), New Jersey, and Representative Florence P. Kahn (Republican), California, were named to the board of women directors of Columbia Hospital for Women, in a resolution adopted by the House yesterday.

5 CITIZENS' GROUPS JOIN FIGHT AGAINST MAPES' TAX BILLS

Piney Branch Association Hears Bowman Deplore Hasty Action.

NORTHEAST BODY URGES 60-40 PLAN RETENTION

Measure for Park at Intersection Is Indorsed by Kaloramans.

The vanguard of citizens, paving the way for the organized fight on Mapes' taxation bills, was joined last night by five more associations. These groups protested the legislation because "they were not given a chance to be heard before the bills were drawn up, and because the levies are not designed to help the District."

A talk by Representative Frank L. Bowman, of West Virginia, a member of the District subcommittee of the House, before the Piney Branch Citizens Association, was accepted by this group as an encouraging sign that the District "has another friend on the Hill."

Representative Bowman told this association that the Mapes legislation should have gone through the usual channels of legislation, instead of being hurried through a special committee, organized for the purpose.

Capper Is Commended.

The representative expressed himself in favor of a law that would provide for the establishment of equitable fiscal relationship between the District and the Federal Government each year.

The Piney Branch Association went on record commending Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, for action which led to the Mapes bills being referred to the Bureau of Efficiency for study.

The Northeast Washington Citizens Association adopted a resolution, protesting against any repeal of the 60-40 arrangement for supporting the District, and against any attempt to increase taxes.

Objections of the Kalorama Citizens Association were directed principally at the proposed automobile and the gasoline taxes "because they are not intended to benefit the streets and highways of the District, the use to which such levies are put in States."

No objection against the inheritance tax was voiced, but the association disapproved the introduction of this and the other tax legislation without first consulting the citizens of the District.

Request that the Senate defer action on the Mapes bills until members of the association are given a hearing was asked in a resolution adopted by the Brookland Citizens Association.

Hit "Hasty Legislation."

The Stanton Park Citizens Association adopted a resolution condemning "the hasty passage of tax legislation by the House," and the reduction of the District lump-sum appropriation. Harry N. Stull introduced the resolution.

The Hillcrest Citizens Association, in a resolution, also condemned the hasty action of the House in approving the Mapes bill. The association also protested the abandonment of a public hearing on the bills. Opposition to any Federal or District pay cut was also voiced.

Other business before these associations last night follows: The Northeast Washington Association adopted a resolution asking Congress to pass the bill providing for appropriation of $50,000 for retiring the indebtedness of Casualty Hospital, after hearing a talk from Roscoe Fertich, a member of the board of Casualty Hospital. WASHINGTON CALLED MECCA FOR BEGGARS

Police Inspector Edwards Urges New Law to Cope With Panhandlers.

"Washington is a mecca for beggars," declared Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, of the Metropolitan police force, speaking before the Council of Social Agencies at the Y. W. C. A. yesterday. Inspector Edwards substituted for Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, Superintendent of Police, who was ill and could not attend the meeting. Gen. Glassford got into the limelight recently by arresting a beggar.

The speaker advocated the passage of more stringent vagrancy laws to enable the police to cope with the problem. He pointed out that many workmen come to Washington with the belief that they will be able to get employment on building jobs now under way here.

The beggars the Police Department are most anxious to stop are the able-bodied panhandlers who do not want work and from whose ranks are recruited the pickpockets, hold-up men, burglars and other criminals. To do this, he said, it is necessary for the citizens to cooperate by refusing to give money to beggars. The missions and charitable agencies are able to take care of every person who deserves aid, the inspector said, and he quoted officials of the Community Chest as saying that "no person need go hungry in Washington."

Thomas G. Walsh, an assistant corporation counsel, substituted for Assistant Corporation Counsel E. W. Thomas, and explained the difficulties encountered in enforcing the present vagrancy laws. He predicted they would be changed soon.

Driver Is Cleared In Woman's Death

Alexandria Coroner Finds Youth Could Not Have Averted Accident.

Coroner T. Marshall Jones, of Alexandria, following an inquest yesterday, held that the death of Mrs. Virginia C. Wenk, who was instantly killed Sunday night when struck by an automobile driven by Joseph H. Castonguay, 19 years old, of 30 Sixteenth street southeast, Washington, was due to unavoidable accident, and Commonwealth's Attorney Albert V. Bryan ordered his release, with the understanding that if, at any future time, it was desired to question him further he would be produced by his attorney, Charles Henry Smith.

The testimony of a number of boys and girls, members of a party returning from Fredericksburg to their Washington home, was to the effect that young Castonguay could not have seen the woman until too late to avoid the accident, and that he did all possible to stop his car before striking her.

The funeral of Mrs. Wenk will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the Wheatley funeral home, and will be conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

The petty crime wave in the District is still flourishing, according to the reports of housebreaking, safe robbing, pocket picking and even robberies from hospitals, that were received at Police Headquarters over the week-end.

Four men were arrested, however, in connection with burglaries in December. The men are alleged to have taken a truck, unknown to the owner, and to have entered two drug stores owned by Max Kosson, of 208 Massachusetts avenue northwest. Second Precinct detectives, who worked up the case, said the first store at Seventh and S streets northwest, was entered December 2 and $138 in cash and two pints of liquor taken.

The second store was looted on December 15. The men are accused of using the "borrowed" truck to haul away 92 pints of whisky and $50 worth of merchandise from the store at Seventh and P streets northwest. Police said $100 in cash was also taken.

Senator's Employe Freed in Speeding

Court Accepts Personal Bonds of Man in Three Traffic Cases.

Charges of speeding, failing to exhibit a permit and use of expired automobile tags against Reuben H. Sparkman, 309 Maryland avenue northeast, were disposed of yesterday when Judge Isaac R. Hitt took Sparkman's personal bond not to repeat the offense.

Two Traffic Bureau officers had paced Sparkman's car, on Bladensburg road northeast, at 40 miles an hour, and when they stopped him, they said, he had no permit and was using expired tags. Judge Hitt was told that Sparkman was a newcomer to this city and that he was unfamiliar with the District's traffic laws.

Sparkman, who said he was an employe of Senator J. J. Blaine, of Wisconsin, said that he was speeding because he wished to rapidly pass cars in which there was some promiscuous petting on foot, and he did not wish members of his family to see it.

RAIL TICKET RACKET IS CHARGED TO TRIO

Ethel Clawans, Said to Have Been Acquitted in Arson Case, Is One Held.

Miss Ethel Clawans, said by police to be the same woman who was acquitted here in 1925 of arson charges in connection with a $30,000 downtown store fire, was yesterday arraigned in Police Court with two men on charges of acting as railroad ticket brokers without the necessary licenses.

Miss Clawans and the others, Samuel Rosenberg and Joseph Schwartz, both of Newark, were arrested by Detective Sergt. Richard Cox, who said they were engaged in an excursion ticket "racket."

The trio, the detectives said, would ride on special trains of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railways and buy return tickets from the excursionists. The tickets were then said to have been sold to persons bound to New York.

Purchasing the tickets for as little as 50 cents, Cox said, they were then sold for as much as $5. The arrests came after two months of investigation after nearly 20 "buys" had been made by detectives.

In Police Court the trio were held on bond of $500 each. They did not give the bond and were held, demanding a jury trial. More arrests are expected, police said.

Ring Bearing Miniature of King Missing

Police of the Seventh Precinct yesterday were asked to aid in locating a number of valuable articles reported lost from the home of Harry R. Talcott, at 3229 R street northwest. In a written communication to police, Mr. Talcott declared the valuables were lost between May 10 and August 20, 1931.

The lost articles, he said, include a gold ring set with a small miniature of King Charles II, surrounded by rubies; an English open-face watch, with a back of blue enamel and set with a ring of pearls. A small diamond, he said, is set in the encasement.

The report also listed the following:

Phone Scheme Is Proposed For Independent Cabmen

William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel for the Public Utilities Commission, yesterday proposed a scheme to the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. for the provision of telephone service for independent taxicab operators. If adopted, he contends, the plan would eliminate one of the most undesirable features of independent taxicab operation.

The scheme, as outlined in a letter to Col. E. Goring Bliss, general commercial manager, follows:

A large number of street call boxes would be installed and maintained throughout the city by the telephone company. These boxes would be equipped with a light visible from the street. Upon receipt of a call for a taxi in which no name of a company is specified, the switchboard operator would flash the call to the nearest street box.

Independent cab operators could buy for a small price a number of tokens which would enable them to open any one of these boxes and obtain the call. The telephone operator could check as to the identity of the cab driver before giving him the call.

Mr. Roberts believes the service could be provided for as little as 3 cents a token, although several extra switchboard operators would be required.

Policeman on Motorcycle Hurt; Takes Driver in Chase

A determined park policeman yesterday managed to arrest a man he sought on a speeding charge, even after the prospective defendant had suddenly stopped his car, causing the policeman to sprain his wrists and wreck his motorcycle.

Another policeman was injured yesterday when he was run down by a motorist at Florida avenue and Sixth street northwest.

The park policeman, B. J. Beckman, of 1477 Newton street northwest, was on his way to work yesterday afternoon when he said a car passed him traveling about 40 miles an hour south on Fourteenth street at Meridian place northwest. He pursued and the car is alleged to have gathered speed. The chase led to the 3100 block of Fourteenth street. In front of No. 11 Engine Co. firehouse, the motorist is said to have suddenly applied his brakes, and the policeman following close behind, crashed into the car. Beckman commandeered a taxicab and overtook the car at Fourteenth street and Columbia road.

Chester N. Farrell, 31 years old, of the Ambassador Hotel, was booked on a speeding charge. Private Beckman was treated at Naval Hospital for his injuries.

Private R. N. White, of 1175 East Capitol street, attached to the Traffic Bureau, was astride his motorcycle waiting to make a left turn at Florida avenue and Sixth street when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by Bernard Goldberg, 29 years old, of 2506 Woodley road northwest. The policeman was treated for a sprained ankle. Goldberg was charged with passing an automobile at an intersection.
